Top Brass Shuns Missile-Firing Atomic Submarine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover told the Senate preparedness subcommittee today the Navy's high command rejected a recommendation from him two years ago for construction of a missile-firing atomic submarine.

And, Rickover said, he is "very much worried that it is almost too late to match the achievements of the Soviet Union" in the general missile field. Rickover, who guided the development of atomic undersea craft,

Stassen Plan Getting Study

U.S. Security Council To Settle Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Council was expected today to take up Harold E. Stassen's proposals to make U.S. disarmament policy more flexible.

The No. 1 item in those proposals, which could be Stassen's swan song as President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, was reported to be a suggested change concerning nuclear tests.

At present, the United States insists that any agreement to halt nuclear tests, as demanded by Russia, should carry with it an inspection system to guarantee that nuclear weapons production is stopped also. Stassen's idea, it was said, was to drop this proviso, permitting an end to nuclear testing without requiring a halt also to atom bomb making.

Secretary of State Dulles and others in the administration, including Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, were said to be strongly opposed.

PRESUMABLY the council was concerned also with the draft reply by Eisenhower to the letter he received last month from Soviet Premier Bulganin. Eisenhower's reply must go to Paris by Wednesday. There it will be considered by the North Atlantic Treaty Council, along with similar replies from other Western heads of government, before being transmitted to Moscow.

Bulganin proposed, among other things, an end to nuclear testing and a high-level East-West conference to outlaw war.

Woman, 106, Is Eager for Garden Work

CINCINNATI (AP)—A spry, white-haired woman in nearby Norwood was 106 years old today and she is looking eagerly toward spring.

Mrs. Ellen Doyle, whose speech shows her native Ireland, looked out the window at the January cold and said, "If me garden was ready, I'd be out there right now. 'Maybe I'll build a nice fire instead. This something to do and it usually brings me visitors."

But as to that garden, Mrs. Doyle, whose husband died 30 years ago, frets about well-meaning neighbors and relatives who fret about her age.

She said, "They try to plant me garden and they don't know how. They throw the seeds on top when the ground must be broken first. I tell them to let it alone and I'll do it myself."

She has a complaint—modern women. She said, "They hardly wear any clothes. I see them parading in those short pants and I tell them, 'you're a lovely girl. Now go put some clothes on.'"

CRUSHED REVOLT — The government of strongman President Marcos Perez Jimenez (left) claims loyal troops directed by Gen. Leaders of the one-day uprising were said to have escaped by plane.

Congress Showing Change in Mood

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress goes back to work Tuesday in an atmosphere of urgency far different from the mood of last year's pre-Sputnik session.

Things are a lot different than they were last Aug. 30 when Senate and House adjourned after chopping $3½ billion from defense and foreign aid appropriations and passing the first civil rights legislation in 80 years.

Interim, Russia launched two earth satellites and the United States failed in its first launching attempt.

Rep. Wright (D-Tex.) summed up the new mood this way: "There is an uneasiness to get on with the job, a sense of urgency."

"The two Sputniks have cast weird and grotesque shadows completely out of proportion to their actual scientific or military significance. Their real significance has been psychological."

"There has been a lot of talk about this being the American century. Is it? And to the extent that it is, what are we going to do about it?"

SUBORDINATION of political jockeying under the stress of the times may wear off under later pressures as the November elections approach. All 435 House seats and 32 of the Senate's 96 seats are up for voters' choice this year.

More than 40 committee hearings are planned during the opening week. Among them, the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee and the House Armed Services Committee all are delving into the missile question.

President Eisenhower's antipathy toward the missile question is well known.

Retrial of Hoffa Set for Feb. 3

NEW YORK (AP)—James R. Hoffa, president-elect of the Teamsters Union, and two co-defendants were ordered today to be ready to stand trial Feb. 3 on charges of wiretap conspiracy.

The first trial ended Dec. 20 in a jury deadlock.

Federal Judge Archie O. Dawson set the new date over objections of Sol Gelb, Hoffa's attorney, who said "I can't possibly be ready by then."

"The case is set for Feb. 3, when he will be ready for trial," Judge Dawson said.

Study Shows America Now Declining In Superiority over Red Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—Acivilian study group says the nation's strategy and military forces are out of step with the tempo of the missile age and need big changes and billions more in money.

Defense spending should be increased about three billion dollars each year for the next several years, said a special 21-man panel of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

"It appears that the United States is rapidly losing its lead over the U.S.S.R. in the military race," the panel said in a report.

"For perhaps the next two years, we still possess a superiority in strategic striking power and any Soviet attack on us would meet a crushing reply. But our position a year or two hence depends on decisions which must be taken immediately. Unless present trends are reversed, the world balance of power will shift in favor of the Soviet bloc."

Summing up findings in a study which began in 1956, the panel concluded among other things that:

1. Strategy "lags behind developments in technology" and "the United States is rapidly losing its lead in the race of military technology." The lag in missiles and space machines "reflects our national complacency."

2. Strategy, as evolved by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is "a patchwork of compromise" among the rival armed forces. The Joint Chiefs of Staff "functions too often as a committee of partisan adversaries engaged in advancing strategic plans and compromising service differences."

3. Combined commands should be created, in which land, sea and air units would come under a single commander with the composition of the combined force patterned to the mission it would perform.

Even more startling to the observers of military tradition was the group's proposal that all officers above one-star rank cease to be identified with an individual service, becoming officers "of the armed forces of the United States."

At least a part of Sputnik I still is orbiting, however, Dr. Kraus reported. He reported a weak indication on the radio telescope at 5:50 a. m. Sunday, the time the Soviet satellite was due to pass.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the fireball was caused by a chunk of Sputnik I," he said, "possibly one of the whip antennae."

The fireball was sighted by the crew of a Navy transport plane about to take off from the Naval Air Station at Port Columbus. It also was sighted by a control tower operator, Pharo Osborn, formerly of Circleville.

Marine Capt. Donald Parrill said the object was white when he first saw it, but it changed to a bright orange-red, then to a dull, dark red as it disappeared east.

Gas Explosions Fatal to Couple

Wisconsin City Hit By $1 Million Mishap

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Natural gas explosions erupted from underground lines Sunday and set off fires that destroyed most of a city block here.

Simultaneous explosions blew the front of an auto body shop and caused minor damage at Trux Field, an Air Force base on the city's east side.

A middle-aged couple was killed when their house blew up and fire Chief Edward J. Page said damage might total $1 million.

William Rossiter of the state fire marshal's office said failure of a regulator valve sent gas under high pressure into a house equipped for low-pressure loads. Explosions occurred where gas seeped through weak points.

Jagged cracks were ripped in pavement in the Bassett Street area and flames shot upward. Firemen kept the flames contained within a square block. It took 15 hours to assure control.

William McGrath, 63, a grocery employee, died in a hospital several hours after an explosion destroyed his home. His wife, 54, who was in a second-floor bedroom, was killed.

McGRATH SAID his wife had asked him to investigate a smoky smell coming from the basement and he was part way downstairs when the blast occurred.

Theron A. Brown, superintendent of the Madison Gas and Electric Co., said his crewmen had checked out the last report of a suspected gas leak. He assured residents they had no need to worry about further explosions. More than 40 blocks were closed off as crewmen chopped up streets in search of possible leaks.

Ice-Bound Swan Freed From New England Pond

WESTERLY, R. I. (AP)—Seven agencies and a number of volunteers joined forces Sunday to rescue a swan which was icebound on Charlestown Pond.

The swan could not get aloft because of the ice on the pond, and officials said it would have starved to death or exhausted itself if it hadn't been rescued.

The swan, with a wing injured from beating against the ice, was taken to a game farm to recover.

He Finds out Hard Way Gun Is Loaded

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Edward Hastings Kilburn, 21, Sunday was toying with a .44-caliber revolver and remarked to a friend: "I wonder what would happen if I pull the trigger."

"I'll just pull on it to show it's not loaded." It was a bullet tore through Kilburn's head, killing him.

This nongovernmental assessment of what's wrong with defense, issued Sunday night in a 15,000-word report, became available to the public while the White House kept secret the report of its own presidentially picked Gaither committee.

The 21-man panel, headed by Nelson A. Rockefeller, included scientists, former diplomats, former defense officials and military officers, industrialists, atomic experts, educators, publishers and a labor union representative.

The Rockefeller study group says that perhaps the most difficult thing for this nation to accept is "the reality of our peril."

It writes that "A new technology of unprecedented power and destructiveness has placed all nations of the world in dire peril."

An attack on 50 of the most important metropolitan areas would fall upon 55 per cent of the nation's population and 75 per cent of its industry, the report says.

The report concludes that the casualties in such an attack might be 10 to 15 million dead, 15 to 20

Grand Jury Opens January Session

The Pickaway County Grand Jury today began its January session. After being sworn in by Common Pleas Judge William Ammer the jury started hearing three cases left over from the October term and 31 new cases.

The three cases from the October term concern Roy Lake, assault and battery; Clyde Asbell, assault and battery, and Clyde Sampill, Jr., taking mortgaged property out of the state.

All these cases have the state of Ohio as the plaintiff. Ishmael Wiggins, OMVI; Ronny Tigner, OMVI; Darrol Wertman, OMVI; Leona Cummins, Grovesport, issuing a check with no account, and Robert Burgett, non-support, affidavit signed by Elizabeth Burgett.

Walter Myers, 18, Ashville, rape; Loretta M. Seyfang, 29, Route 4, Circleville, OMVI; Warren Streitenberger, OMVI; Joseph Hickey, 34, 219 E. Mound St., assault and battery, on an affidavit signed by Marguerite Congrove; Roy Dale

Ohioan's Killer Due To Face No Accusation

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—No charges will be filed against a be-whiskered prospector who killed an Ohioan and wounded his brother when they attempted to rob him at a cotton camp, the county attorney's office said Sunday.

Dep. County Atty. Anis Mitchell said an inquest would be conducted by Justice of the Peace Billy Meek, but no charges would be placed against John Garret, 55, a night watchman at the camp.

Garret shot and killed 32-year-old Ray Coe of Alliance, Ohio, Saturday night and wounded his brother, Robert, 21. The survivor is shackled to a bed in Maricopa County Hospital for treatment of a chest wound.

Garret told Mitchell he drew his gun and fired after one of the pair struck him with a bottle. He said they were after his "grub stake" of $400.

Mitchell said Robert admitted he and his brother intended to rob the night watchman.

The Coe brothers were cotton pickers at the camp, located about 45 miles west of Phoenix. Garret said he was working there to raise money for prospecting trips.

Ohio's Weekend Accidents Kill 15

COLUMBUS (AP)—The first weekend of the new year was the last for 15 persons killed accidentally in Ohio—eight of them in traffic.

In the miscellaneous category were two drownings, three in fires and two from gas fumes.

At least one Air Force Thor, an intermediate missile, also rested in its tower. There was heightened activity around a tower shrouding a Navy Vanguard rocket, ellipse into orbit in space.

Army technicians were in the cape area. The Defense Department has authorized the Army to try to put a satellite aloft with its Jupiter-C rocket.

Vanguard I was a failure last Dec. 6 when it exploded on its launching pad.

Windy, rainy weather, unfit for firings in recent days, was expected to continue at least through today. But heavy registration of engineers and rocketmen at area motels gave rise to a belief that busy days lie ahead.

While only a few of Montgomery Ward stores were struck, a union spokesman here said all company stores are being subjected to "informational picketing."

The dispute is over negotiation of a new contract, with wage rates, hours and the union shop the key issues.

Army Research Chief To Retire

'Pentagon System' Hit; Solons Show Concern

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spectacular one-man revolt by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin spurred demands today for a shakeup in the military high command.

Gavin, chief of the Army's research and development program, declared he is sticking by his announced intention to retire from the Army March 31. He will be 51 then, with 30 years service.

"I won't compromise my principles and I won't go along with the Pentagon system," he said. Some members of Congress expressed concern at Gavin's move, and a Senate subcommittee planned to explore the matter.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said Gavin's stand emphasizes what he called a need for Congress to consider overhauling the present military setup.

Gavin said that "I haven't been able to get much done, the system being what it is." Without elaborating on this, he said he is "not doing any good" inside the Army "so I'll take a cut at it on the outside."

AS A CIVILIAN, Gavin said, he would be freer to "recommend, to apply creative thinking to national defense."

Testifying before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee last month, Gavin said the Joint Chiefs of Staff system should be abolished for its present purposes of planning over-all military programs. He suggested that it be replaced by a planning group not specifically representing the different armed services.

Gavin said at the time that he was not criticizing any past or present military or civilian leaders at the Pentagon.

But he expressed dissatisfaction with the present system under which decisions are reached by compromise among the heads of the services.

This contention received strong support over the weekend in a report issued by the Rockefeller civilian study group which declared that U. S. strategy, as evolved by the JCS, is a "patchwork of compromise." It added that JCS "functions too often as a committee of partisan adversaries."

State Building Plans To Aid Unemployed

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill says the state's highway and hospital building programs will help relieve unemployment during the year.

He envisioned a $400 million highway program, far in excess of the record construction placed under contract in 1957.

The 1957 program totaled $290 million, about $67 million more than for the previous year.

The institutional building program hit $28 million in 1957 for a new high. The governor said about $20 million would be spent on new hospitals and prisons this year.

O'Neill said general revenue expenditures in the last six months were nearly 3½ million below appropriations, making it possible to establish an emergency fund for the future.

He issued an administrative order for all state departments to keep future spending below appropriation levels and ordered a hands-off policy for the 3½ million dollar nest egg.

"I have determined," the governor said, "that in Ohio we shall operate without any new taxes for the remainder of the biennium."

10 Ohio Colleges To Get DuPont Grants

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ten Ohio colleges and universities will share in DuPont's annual program of aid to education, the company has announced. In all, 135 schools across the nation will receive nearly $1,150,000.

The ten in Ohio include Ohio State, Western Reserve, Wooster, Antioch, Case Tech, Kenyon, Marietta, Mount Union, Oberlin and Ohio Wesleyan.

Top Brass Shuns Missile-Firing Atomic Submarine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover told the Senate preparedness subcommittee today the Navy's high command rejected a recommendation from him two years ago for construction of a missile-firing atomic submarine.

And, Rickover said, he is "very much worried that it is almost too late to match the achievements of the Soviet Union" in the general missile field. Rickover, who guided the development of atomic undersea craft, said he had not originally proposed that nuclear submarines be equipped to fire ballistic missiles.

But two years ago, he said, he became convinced that such a project would be feasible and recommended that it be started.

Rickover testified behind closed doors but a briefing on his testimony was given reporters by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the subcommittee chairman.

Meantime, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) called for a special Navy program, headed by an official with power to act, to speed this country's missile submarine program. He renewed his call for at least 100 such submarines a year.

JACKSON, a member of the parent Armed Services Committee but not of the subcommittee, said that "sooner than most of us think," Russia will have "large numbers of nuclear submarines armed with 1,500-mile missiles."

By comparison, he said, "our present plans call for exactly one hunter-killer submarine to be operational in 1960."

Jackson said the Navy's intermediate missile, Polaris, is near final testing stage but "will not be a real weapon until it is married to its launching platform, a nuclear submarine."

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) conceded that Russia may have a slight lead now in missiles, but said this country still is "equal or ahead" in various types of atomic weapons.

Knowland predicted that this country will be able to match the Russians in missiles and that launching of American satellites this year will further offset the present Russian advantage in those fields.

GOP Chieftain Lines Up as Anti-Bender

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ray C. Bliss, Republican state chairman, has added his voice to those who have commented adversely on the proposed gubernatorial aspirations of George Bender.

Bliss issued the following copy of the letter he sent Bender:

"I have read in today's newspapers that you are considering filing as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio in the coming primary. I strongly urge of you in the best interests of party harmony and party success in 1958 that you do not file. In my judgment the vast majority of Ohio Republican party leaders feel as I do."

"That's nice of him," Bender commented in Cleveland when informed of Bliss' letter. Then Bender added:

"I will not have a comment on anything until I make a definite statement on my plans in a week or 10 days."

Bender laughingly denied any ill feeling for Gov. C. William O'Neill, who plans to announce for Republican renomination.

"In fact, I received nine Christmas cards from O'Neill and eight from Krenzler. I must be on all their lists," he joked. Alvin I. Krenzler is O'Neill's lieutenant in Cleveland.

Presley's Draft Board Is Uneasy

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Things haven't been the same at the draft board since Elvis Presley was ordered up for induction.

Letters and calls have poured in protesting both the induction order and the subsequent 60-day postponement given the rock 'n' roll singer.

Says Board Chairman Milton Bowers Sr.: "With all due respect to Elvis, who's a nice boy we've drafted people who are far more important than he is. After all, when you take him out of the entertainment business what have you got left? A truck driver."

Colder Temperature Coming Tonight

Colder weather is in sight for this area tonight and tomorrow according to forecasts today.

The weatherman said it will turn much colder tonight with snow flurries and high winds. The outlook probably will remain about the same tomorrow.

Forecasting in the low 20's is expected tonight with a high of 24-30 listed tomorrow.

Yesterday's high was 33 with a low of 25 recorded last night.

Dep. County Atty. Anis Mitchell said an inquest would be conducted by Justice of the Peace Billy Meek, but no charges would be placed against John Garret, 55, a night watchman at the camp.

Garret shot and killed 32-year-old Ray Coe of Alliance, Ohio, Saturday night and wounded his brother, Robert, 21. The survivor is shackled to a bed in Maricopa County Hospital for treatment of a chest wound.

Garret told Mitchell he drew his gun and fired after one of the pair struck him with a bottle. He said they were after his "grub stake" of $400.

Mitchell said Robert admitted he and his brother intended to rob the night watchman.

The Coe brothers were cotton pickers at the camp, located about 45 miles west of Phoenix. Garret said he was working there to raise money for prospecting trips.

New Activity At Canaveral Under Watch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Several ballistic missiles stood poised in servicing towers today and rocketmen converged on this Florida east coast launching area in strength that suggested firings were in prospect.

Officials were mum but there was some basis for speculation that satellite launching attempts soon will be made.

Three of the big rockets on launching pads were Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles. One was test-fired on its tee Saturday with no word on whether the stationary performance tryout was a success.

At least one Air Force Thor, an intermediate missile, also rested in its tower. There was heightened activity around a tower shrouding a Navy Vanguard rocket, en route to orbit in space.

Army technicians were in the cape area. The Defense Department has authorized the Army to try to put a satellite aloft with its Jupiter-C rocket.

Vanguard I was a failure last Dec. 6 when it exploded on its launching pad.

Windy, rainy weather, unfit for firings in recent days, was expected to continue at least through today. But heavy registration of engineers and rocketmen at area motels gave rise to a belief that busy days lie ahead.

Montgomery Ward Clerks Striking

WASHINGTON (AP)—Clerks in a number of Montgomery Ward & Co. retail stores went out on strike today across the nation.

The Retail Clerks International Assn. said possibly a dozen such strikes were struck this morning and the number would be increased gradually as the walkout progressed. The union would not give a list of affected stores immediately.

The dispute is over negotiation of a new contract, with wages, hours and the union shop the key issues.

While only a few of Montgomery Ward stores were struck, a union spokesman here said all company stores are being subjected to "informational picketing."

Army Research Chief To Retire

'Pentagon System' Hit; Solons Show Concern

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spectacular one-man revolt by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin spurred demands today for a shakeup in the military high command.

Gavin, chief of the Army's research and development program, declared he is sticking by his announced intention to retire from the Army March 31. He will be 51 then, with 30 years service.

"I won't compromise my principles and I won't go along with the Pentagon system," he said. Some members of Congress expressed concern at Gavin's move, and a Senate subcommittee planned to explore the matter.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said Gavin's stand emphasizes what he called a need for Congress to consider overhauling the present military setup.

Gavin said that "I haven't been able to get much done, the system being what it is." Without elaborating on this, he said he is "not doing any good" inside the Army "so I'll take a cut at it on the outside."

AS A CIVILIAN, Gavin said, he would be free to "recommend, to apply creative thinking to national defense."

Testifying before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee last month, Gavin said the Joint Chiefs of Staff system should be abolished for its present purposes of planning over-all military programs. He suggested that it be replaced by a planning group not specifically representing the different armed services.

Gavin said at the time that he was not criticizing any past or present military or civilian leaders at the Pentagon.

But he expressed dissatisfaction with the present system under which decisions are reached by compromise among the heads of the services.

This contention received strong support over the weekend in a report issued by the Rockefeller civilian study group which declared that U. S. strategy, as evolved by the JCS, is a "patchwork of compromise." It added that JCS "functions too often as a committee of partisan adversaries."

State Building Plans To Aid Unemployed

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill says the state's highway and hospital building programs will help relieve unemployment during the year.

He envisioned a $400 million highway program, far in excess of the record construction placed under contract in 1957.

The 1957 program totaled $290 million, about $67 million more than for the previous year.

The institutional building program hit $28 million in 1957 for a new high. The governor said about $20 million would be spent on new hospitals and prisons this year.

O'Neill said general revenue expenditures in the last six months were nearly 3½ million below appropriations, making it possible to establish an emergency fund for the future.

He issued an administrative order for all state departments to keep future spending below appropriation levels and ordered a dollar-off policy for the 3½ million dollar net egg.

"I have determined," the governor said, "that in Ohio we shall operate without any new taxes for the remainder of the biennium."

10 Ohio Colleges To Get DuPont Grants

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ten Ohio colleges and universities will share in DuPont's annual program of aid to education, the company has announced. In all, 135 schools across the nation will receive nearly $1,150,000.

The ten in Ohio include Ohio State, Western Reserve, Wooster, Antioch, Case Tech, Kenyon, Marietta, Mount Union, Oberlin and Ohio Wesleyan.

Stassen Plan Getting Study

U.S. Security Council To Settle Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Council was expected today to take up Harold E. Stassen's proposals to make U. S. disarmament policy more flexible.

The No. 1 item in those proposals, which could be Stassen's swan song as President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, was reported to be a suggested change concerning nuclear tests.

At present, the United States insists that any agreement to halt nuclear tests, as demanded by Russia, should carry with it an inspection system to guarantee that nuclear weapons production is stopped also. Stassen's idea, it was said, was to drop this proviso, permitting an end to nuclear testing without requiring a halt also in atom bomb making.

Secretary of State Dulles and others in the administration, including Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, were said to be strongly opposed.

PRESUMABLY the council was concerned also with the draft reply by Eisenhower to the letter he received last month from Soviet Premier Bulganin. Eisenhower's reply must go to Paris by Wednesday. There it will be considered by the North Atlantic Treaty Council, along with similar replies from other Western heads of government, before being transmitted to Moscow.

Bulganin proposed, among other things, an end to nuclear testing and a high-level East-West conference to outlaw war.

Woman, 106, Is Eager for Garden Work

CINCINNATI (AP)—A spry, white-haired woman in nearby Norwood was 106 years old today and she is looking eagerly toward spring.

Mrs. Ellen Doyle, whose speech shows her native Ireland, looked out the window at the January cold and said, "If me garden was a ready, I'd be out there right now."

"Maybe I'll build a nice fire instead. Tis something to do and it usually brings me visitors."

But as to that garden, Mrs. Doyle, whose husband died 30 years ago, frets about well-meaning neighbors and relatives who fret about her age.

She said, "They try to plant me garden and they don't know how. They throw the seeds on top when the ground must be broken first. I tell them to let it alone and I'll do it myself."

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married eight years to a man whom I thought the most wonderful guy in the world—until last May, when he moved out suddenly, leaving a letter listing his grievances.

He concluded by saying he still thought me the most wonderful person he'd ever known, and that he wasn't leaving for another woman, but only because he no longer loved me. Meantime he'd maintained our home as usual, and we'd been in almost daily contact by phone.

Now I learn that he was seeing another woman in that interval; and they've since broken up. Presently he admits being involved with another woman (mother of children), separated from her husband. He says he isn't in love with her, and promises to stop seeing her; but neither is he in love with me, he says.

He plans to leave again; says he is confused and wants to live alone. I have advised professional help—to no avail. I asked him to cooperate in consulting a clergyman, marriage counselor or older person; but he refuses. He just wants to leave; doesn't want to be married, although he still praises me to the sky.

I am at a loss. I don't know if I should let him go easily, or put up a fight to hold him. I do love him and would like to keep my home together. But this strain, as to whether he goes or stays, and who he's seeing, is becoming too much for me.

with loads of women. We are in our early thirties and have a young son, whom he says he loves, and who worships the ground his father walks on.

H.S.

DEAR H.S.: This is a man confused by the chaos of his own behavior—or misbehavior. As a result of trifling with other women, taking the course of least resistance, he has forfeited (for the time being) his capacity to love a wife wholeheartedly.

That is the essence of adultery—to adulterate one's capacity to love. It rules out totality, conviction and contentment. It sabotages emotional integrity and dilutes personality. It weakens the will, clouds the mind, depresses the soul—and cuts off the current of spiritual grace (which operates on behalf of those who stick to the rules of righteous living).

Karl (let's call him) feels that he is no longer the person he was in relation to you, before he got involved with other women. He feels lost, alienated from his former self, the self you still take him to be, in your loyalty and innocence of mind. Your innocence has to do with not having sinned his kind of sin; hence you don't see through his eyes.

For him, his world has changed. Much as Eden changed for Adam, after his fall from grace, I suppose. And now he thinks if he pulls up stakes and goes away, he may blunder into another garden of paradise. But of course he won't. His trouble is within his own consciousness; and there is where he must repair the mistake, and reconstruct his happiness.

Your intuition is sound—that his problem calls for professional help to get him back on the beam of heart wholeness. In the town through which you write, some of the leading churches afford psychiatrically slanted pastoral counseling, which would be ideal for him, I think.

He needs to see for himself the pattern of his confusion. And to form durable associations with right-minded people—as an antidote to his lone wolf behavior, and to nourish and sustain good character, by acquiring wholesome habits and interests. Have him read this, and then try again to win him to reason.

Second Flapper Era in '58 Seems Destined for Women

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—American women may as well accept the idea that we are entering a second flapper age in 1958.

From Chemise dresses to short hairdos, fashion harks back 30 years, to the period of feminine revolt when women threw away their girdles, shortened their skirts, rolled their stockings and danced the Charleston.

That was the era generally considered to have ushered in the most unflattering fashions in history—the era of the flat chest and the boyish bob, of exposed knees and belts around the hips. It was the time when women were demonstrating their freedom from traditional taboos, when they talked of free verse and free love, when they demanded equality and the right to vote.

The fashions of spring, 1958, as unveiled today by New York designers at the opening of a week of advance showings for the nation's fashion press, hark back to the sack silhouette and the shorter hair of the 1920s but they managed to avoid some of the more harrowing features of that earlier mode. For instance:

It no longer is necessary to appear flat-chested in order to be in style. The new versions of the chemise make due allowance for female curves, and are carefully shaped to provide normal bust room. Skirts are only slightly shorter, and no knobby knees need be exposed. Girdles and bras are still advisable for wear with the new dresses, which must fit perfectly in order to look their best. The slim hipline is important, and foundation garments are designed with this in mind.

After the first shock, women are discovering that the 1958 version of the chemise can be distinctly flattering, if correctly fitted and designed. Though the silhouette ignores the waistline, it accentuates graceful curves elsewhere, directs attention to neckline and hemline and dramatizes beautiful fabrics and workmanship.

Suits for the 1958 Easter parade will be smart, wearable and varied. The most popular silhouette features the short, unfitted jacket, just reaching the hipbone, with slim skirt and overblouse the same length as the jacket, often of fabric to match the lining.

There also are brief jackets, ending at the waistline, and bloused jackets, usually with back fullness drawn into a snug line at the hips. The chanel suit, with box jacket and pleated skirt, also is important in the spring lineup, particularly favored by the young.

Fabrics are more elegant than in many years, with beautiful, shiffon-weight woollens in the ascendancy, many textured silks being shown in suits and costumes, and a number of blends with new talents, enabling garments to shed wrinkles and soil and even to be dunked in the washing machine.

As usual, navy is the first color choice for spring suits and coats, with lighter grays and beiges also important. Vivid colors are seen in silk print dresses and costumes and in cocktail and evening gowns.

A favorite outfit for spring will be the straight chemise dress and matching jacket or full-length coat, shown in all fabrics and many colors. White accents at the neckline are numero uno, and hemlines often are dramatized by slits or flounces.

There are some fitted, full-skirted dresses in the after-5 fashions, but even for formal wear slender lines look newest, and smart women will be choosing draped chiffon sheaths for evening, in black or high colors, short or long.

In 1957 a total of 2,276 Brahman cattle were shipped from the United States to 42 foreign countries.

Ohio-Born Chemist To Receive Award

NEW YORK (AP)—The highest honor in American chemistry, the Priestley medal, will be awarded to Dr. Ernest H. Volwiler, a native of Hamilton, Ohio, who is general manager of Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill.

The American Chemical Society, which gives the medal each year for "distinguished service to chemistry," named Dr. Volwiler Sunday as the 1958 recipient. It will be presented to him at the society's meeting in San Francisco this April.

Students Seek Three-Rs

"Progressive" education, the brainchild of those who would replace the three Rs with theoretical studies, received a sharp rebuff by none other than the students themselves, in an unusual get-together of high school principals, English teachers, guidance counselors and students of the University of Illinois, at the university.

Amazing as these may seem to those who will remember their own days of struggling through themes, spelling bees and the dissection of sentences into grammatical pieces, students found that when they crossed the college threshold they needed more such training.

Called by the university in an effort to strengthen the state's educational system, the conference consisted of a give-and-take rebuttal by high school faculty members and college students on what shortcomings, if any, the students found in their training when they reached college.

Indicative of students' trouble in English is the high percentage who must take a refresher, no credit, course in English at the university before they are ready to partake of college-level instruction. At the present time 25 per cent of all freshmen are enrolled in this pre-college English course.

Students agreed almost unanimously that they should have received more drilling in spelling and grammar, both in high school and elementary school. They also complained of not having sufficient background in writing themes.

All of which, according to Prof. Charles W. Roberts, chairman of freshman rhetoric at the university, is the fault of school administrators who too often are influenced by a "play school attitude." "It is time," said the professor, "we washed our hands of sand-box activity."

Leave Weapons to Civilians

What many a citizen may have been thinking during recent weeks is voiced by Prof. J. Sterling Livingston of the Harvard School of Business. Livingston says the military services of the United States are not likely to generate much technological progress.

A policy of devising weapons for years ahead is "contrary to the military's traditional, and indeed appropriate, mission of maximum immediate readiness," he says.

If one can cite an instance of a military weapon of the future that was invented by the military, it would be the exception. Virtually all of them, including nuclear weapons of today, came from civilian sources.

In view of this, the professor supposes that the logical thing to do is to conduct weapons research and development outside the Pentagon and under civilian auspices.

After a weapon is developed, it might be a military function to contract for production. But even that military function is suspect because of the military's inclination to operate inefficiently in contracting.

There is much precedent for Livingston's idea. During World War II the nation had an Office of Scientific Research and Development. The Manhattan Project, which developed the A-bomb, had some military supervision but was manned mainly by civilians. Britain had wartime civilian advisers who came through with ideas vital to the conduct of the war.

It may be that, somewhere in the Pentagon, there reposes a military genius who could work some miracles in the weapons field. But there is little historical precedent for it.

Fresh Adventures Predicted

NEW YORK (AP)—Once a year we try to be a fortune teller, and once again we must say:

"This year is fortunate."

It is a welcome reading in a crystal ball too often cloudy. The usual things in 1958 will disturb the world pattern—things like earthquakes, people, weather and doubt.

The endless changing pattern of change itself will enforce our lives as always, closing doors, ways on the familiar by a pull, and by a push opening new doors to new and differing days and other ways.

Yes, we must be willing to face fresh adventures in the coming year, such as:

Item: A man will invent a doll which he will guarantee will not weep, close its eyes, walk, or wet its diaper. It will be called

"dumb doll," and it will sell 12 million copies. Children will cry to own this strange toy, so different from themselves.

Item: The Detroit Lions, a professional football team, will hire a 145-pound guard. After the first three plays, they will hire a 245-pound guard.

Item: The Russians will throw a spunkin toward the moon and miss it, but won't announce it.

Item: The British will hit the moon—and if someone observes this and makes a complaint about it the British Home Office will force the British Foreign Office to come clean.

In the National League it is hard to fault Milwaukee, and in the American League after the Yankees it is hard to predict Kansas City less than a close last.

There are other possibilities: In the year ahead thinking may replace bowling as the national pastime; it must also be considered that people, weary of outside entertainment, will look more into themselves for refreshment. This could build larger stadiums within the heart . . . or it could happen in another year. A gain will be made in 1958.

On the international front, the crystal ball shows:

It will be observed that Khrushchev, somber with responsibility, is drinking less than he was known to drink before. This could be bad or good.

In California in September a wife will unexpectedly greet her husband returning from a business trip, and there'll be a girl in the front seat.

The big puzzle of 1958 will be how the girl knew the car was going to California. The solution will come in court in 1960.

GOP Grows Steadily Weaker

Congress meets again. Its members are coming back into Washington from home where they have been listening to their constituents and now know that there is widespread discontent throughout the country for various reasons. Congress is returning in an unhappy frame of mind, particularly the Republicans who do not know what the answer is.

In 1928, the Republican Party was the majority party of the United States; the population was still prevalently rural and there was an enormous, if inflationary, prosperity in all the land. By 1932, it was otherwise. The country was in the depth of the depression; poverty stalked about a third of the nation; cities and states were bankrupt. The Democrats came to power under Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was not until 1946 that the Republicans were returned to power in Congress in its 80th session. They had a majority in the Senate and the House. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio was the leader of the party in Congress and his coalition with a group of Southern senators gave him real effective power. The President was Harry Truman who, in office, was not as respected as he has since become.

The candidate for President in 1948 was Thomas E. Dewey, Governor of New York, who was not elected. This defeat gave the Democrats additional strength because Truman got rid, in his second term, of extremist left-wing elements in the Democratic Party. Among Republicans, it was certain that Robert A. Taft would be elected to the Presidency.

However, Thomas E. Dewey and a group of businessmen, many of them not heretofore involved in Republican politics, selected Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was in Paris running NATO, to be the candidate. Eisenhower had never been a partisan; in fact, when his candidacy was first proposed, he had never voted in an election, as professional soldiers do not.

In 1948, Harry Truman had given him consideration as the candidate for the Democratic Party when the wise men told Truman that he could not be elected. Eisenhower possessed no experience in civil administration or skill in party politics.

Nevertheless, he was nominated and elected in 1952 by an enormous vote and entered upon his first term as one of the most popular of Presidents. If ever a man had a chance to rebuild a party, it was Eisenhower. However, he had no Republican traditions and there must be a vindictive strain in his nature because he soon showed a marked dislike for all the supporters of Robert A. Taft and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. He appointed a mediocre New England Governor, Sherman Adams, as his political mentor and manipulator.

The Republicans controlled the Senate for the first two years of the Eisenhower Administration, but this period was wasted in an internecine war between Sen. McCarthy and the White House, the consequence of which was that the Republicans soon lost their narrow majority in the Senate.

Whereas Eisenhower won by an enormous majority, Republicans in Congress and Republican Governors did not do so well. In the 1954 Congressional election, the Republicans lost the Congress, as they did in 1956, when Eisenhower was again overwhelmingly elected.

One of the major political difficulties of the Eisenhower Administration is that men do not disappear as rapidly as it may be politically desirable. In a word, most active Republicans are still men and women who antedate Eisenhower in their party and they are resentful of the so-called "Modern Republicans" who have come from nowhere into the party, whose names and faces are unknown to Republicans and some of whom have had, according to other Republicans, reprehensible careers in the New Deal. The result is that the party is everywhere split and factional and there is no leadership in Washington which is acknowledged throughout the land.

In fact, Sherman Adams has taken on an unpopularity which makes of him the party whipping boy, he being blamed for all the disasters that have befallen the party.

So this is the party that President Eisenhower faces as Congress reassembles. Never in its history, not even in periods of total defeat, has the Republican Party been so weak and disunited. It is difficult to recall another example of a political party growing steadily weaker while its own President is in the White House.

The New York Heart association offers wives some advice on how to keep husbands alive. The surest way is to eschew widowhood.

Wives are advised to serve food that doesn't add excess weight. Remember, he may already be a fathead.

A wife should see to it that her husband gets plenty of rest. If she takes the pay check, he'll get the rest.

A wife should see to it that her husband gets moderate exercise. Let him walk across the room himself to adjust the TV.

A wife should do everything she can to help her husband avoid anxieties. Tell him not to worry, his insurance is ample.

Wives should persuade their husbands to quit worrying about symptoms. Shortness of breath, for instance, is something she can make up for.

Wives should get their husbands to agree to adequate vacations. A couple of weeks at a resort hotel and he'll feel relieved to get back home.

Start the Day Off Right

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

You have to live a healthy life every day. Unfortunately, not too many of you do.

While I am as much against regimentation as a freedom-loving American, there are a few things all of us can and should do every day to get the most out of our lives and, at the same time, keep ourselves in good physical and mental condition.

So, for the next few days, let me take you step by step through a full day, from the time you arise (you'll be getting up a little earlier now), through your hours at the office, until your head hits the pillow at bedtime.

I don't expect you to hop out of bed smiling and singing, but I do want you to get up early enough to give you time for a refreshing shower and a good breakfast.

You can omit the shower if you have taken a bath the night before. A warm bath can help put you in a sleeping mood. A brisk morning shower will help wake you. Take whichever you prefer, but take a bath or shower every day.

Every year American women spend $500,000,000 on beauty aids and the men spend even more for good grooming. Yet you may be wasting your time and money if you apply a frosting of powder over a grimy face. You've got to be clean and fresh to look clean and fresh.

The pores of your skin are a means of throwing off body wastes.

Doctors and beauty authorities alike agree that if you want a skin that looks fresh and clear at any age, you must give it a thorough sudsing and rinsing as part of daily skin care. Not only will it keep your skin clean, it will help keep it soft as well.

Soft water, as all of you know, is much easier on the skin and gives you a much better lather from soap or detergent. Actually, the sticky curd which hard water-minerals form when combined with soap may clog the pores of the skin and harbor bacteria.

Clean underwear and especially clean stockings every day are advisable. It doesn't make much sense to bathe daily and then don unclean clothes.

One more thing before you go off to breakfast. Perhaps you had better use a deodorant. As I have advised you before, most of the commercial preparations on the market today are pretty effective. And—let's face it—most everyone needs the help a deodorant provides.

Question and Answer
F. H.: I am 63 and have had severe bleeding from an ulcer three times in the last year. Do you advise operation?

Answer: At your age, with the history of repeated hemorrhages, surgery usually is indicated in treatment of bleeding ulcer.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will be watched this year, both for leadership and imagination, as never before. It may be a most fateful year, both for him and for the country.

Neither he nor Congress, which returns this week, knows whether 1957 was a turning-point in his story, or whether 1958 will be, or whether what they do this year will determine the future.

They do know this: last year Russia revealed such progress that this country will be for years in a continuing and enormous struggle to get ahead or even stay abreast.

And the steps both Congress and Eisenhower take this year—in laying the foundations for the enormous future effort necessary—may decide who wins in the end: this country or Russia.

This is a terrible burden for a 66-year-old president who has now suffered a serious illness every year for three years and whose doctors restrict his activities.

No president ever took office with more public confidence than Eisenhower. For his first four years he had a charmed political life, amazingly free of criticism.

In those years the public was not aware of the astonishing progress of Russia. And those years were a time of rising prosperity when all that seemed necessary was to go on as before and keep down government spending.

All this changed in 1957, the first year of Eisenhower's second term, and three things did it: Eisenhower's own obvious failures in leadership at home; his third illness; and sudden public awareness of how fast Russia was moving, an awareness forced upon it by the Sputniks and the missiles.

His illness raised natural questions about his ability to give the kind of full and active leadership needed.

There is no better evidence of how little he understood how much Russia has been doing—or, if he understood it, how slow to action he was—than this:

Last year he offered Congress an education program simply to build more schools, although a commission he named was trying to promote state and private support for training more scientists and engineers. This year, after the newspapers were full of stories about Russia's progress in training scientists, Eisenhower has dropped the classroom idea and wants Congress to vote money for educating scientists.

Two things showed his wobbly

leadership in 1957 at home:

1. The way he fumbled around with his budget trying to decide whether to fight for it or let Congress chop it to bits.

2. His failure to fight for the school aid program that he did propose. He urged it. But when voting time came, and a word from him might have swung its passage, he stood by silently while it was killed.

This country might be able to withstand for a while White House uncertainties on domestic problems. But it knows it can't make less than a full effort in foreign affairs now.

Majority of Steel Plant Chiefs Label '58 'Good Year'

CLEVELAND (AP)—General managers of 7,500 steel plants believe by a 70 per cent majority that 1958 will be as good or better than 1957 for gross sales volume in metalworking, "Steel" magazine reported today.

And 1957's gross sales volume was a record 140 billion dollars. The weekly metalworking journal predicted a reduction of about 2 1/2 per cent from last year in the output of steel for ingots and castings.

"Steel users can expect plentiful supplies, improved quality and service and steady to slightly higher prices," the magazine said.

In replies to "Steel's" survey, the metalworking managers looked for an upturn of business in the second half, a slowdown of expansion, high defense spending, increased production costs, rising prices and lower profits.

A "major soft spot for metalworking in the year ahead is the decline in capital equipment spending," the magazine said. Shipments of machinery may be as much as 25 per cent under 1957, "Steel" predicted.

Other steel-consuming industries "should fare about this way," Steel said:

Automobiles — Production of 6 million cars and 1.05 million trucks, compared with 6.15 million cars and 1.08 million trucks in 1957.

Appliances—up 10 per cent with clothes dryers and washers, radios, dishwashers and electric refrigerators the best sellers.

Construction—About 1.6 billion dollars above last year's 47.4 billion dollars.

Transportation — Capital spending of 1.4 billion dollars by railroads, about the same as in 1957, and increased naval and commercial shipbuilding. Production of about 100 transport and 6,500 smaller civilian airplanes.

Electrical machinery — Sales total of 8 billion dollars, compared with 7.2 billion last year and 5.9 billion in 1956.

For the week ended Jan. 5, output for ingots and castings was at 55 per cent of the 1957 rated capacity of 133.5 million tons. Later this week a 1958 capacity incorporating an expansion last year of about 8 million tons will be announced and become the basis for new percentage production reports.

Whereas Eisenhower won by an enormous majority, Republicans in Congress and Republican Governors did not do so well. In the 1954 Congressional election, the Republicans lost the Congress, as they did in 1956, when Eisenhower was again overwhelmingly elected.

One of the major political difficulties of the Eisenhower Administration is that men do not disappear as rapidly as it may be politically desirable. While I am as much against regimentation as a freedom-loving American, there are a few things all of us can and should do every day to get the most out of our lives and, at the same time, keep ourselves in good physical and mental condition.

So, for the next few days, let me take you step by step through a full day, from the time you arise (you'll be getting up a little earlier now), through your hours at the office, until your head hits the pillow at bedtime.

I don't expect you to hop out of bed smiling and singing, but I do want you to get up early enough to give you time for a refreshing shower and a good breakfast.

You can omit the shower if you have taken a bath the night before. A warm bath can help put you in a sleeping mood. A brisk morning shower will help wake you. Take whichever you prefer, but take a bath or shower every day.

Every year American women spend $500,000,000 on beauty aids and the men spend even more for good grooming. Yet you may be wasting your time and money if you apply a frosting of powder over a grimy face. You've got to be clean and fresh to look clean and fresh.

The pores of your skin are a means of throwing off body wastes.

Doctors and beauty authorities alike agree that if you want a skin that looks fresh and clear at any age, you must give it a thorough sudsing and rinsing as part of daily skin care. Not only will it keep your skin clean, it will help keep it soft as well.

Soft water, as all of you know, is much easier on the skin and gives you a much better lather from soap or detergent. Actually, the sticky curd which hard water-minerals form when combined with soap may clog the pores of the skin and harbor bacteria.

Clean underwear and especially clean stockings every day are advisable. It doesn't make much sense to bathe daily and then don unclean clothes.

One more thing before you go off to breakfast. Perhaps you had better use a deodorant. As I have advised you before, most of the commercial preparations on the market today are pretty effective. And — let's face it — most everyone needs the help a deodorant provides.

Question and Answer

F. H.: I am 63 and have had severe bleeding from an ulcer three times in the last year. Do you advise operation?

Answer: At your age, with the history of repeated hemorrhages, surgery usually is indicated in treatment of bleeding ulcer.

The New York Heart association offers wives some advice on how to keep husbands alive. The surest way is to eschew widowhood.

Wives are advised to serve food that doesn't add excess weight. Remember, he may already be a fathead.

A wife should see to it that her husband gets plenty of rest. If she takes the pay check, he'll get the rest.

A wife should see to it that her husband gets moderate exercise. Let him walk across the room himself to adjust the TV.

A wife should do everything she can to help her husband avoid anxieties. Tell him not to worry, his insurance is ample.

Wives should persuade their husbands to quit worrying about symptoms. Shortness of breath, for instance, is something she can make up for.

Wives should get their husbands to agree to adequate vacations. A couple of weeks at a resort hotel and he'll feel relieved to get back home.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President

Eisenhower will be watched this year, both for leadership and imagination, as never before. It may be a most fateful year, both for him and for the country.

Neither he nor Congress, which returns this week, knows whether 1957 was a turning-point in his story, or whether 1958 will be, or whether what they do this year will determine the future.

They do know this: last year Russia revealed such progress that this country will be for years in a continuing and enormous struggle to get ahead or even stay abreast.

And the steps both Congress and Eisenhower take this year—in laying the foundations for the enormous future effort necessary—may decide who wins in the end: this country or Russia.

This is a terrible burden for a 66-year-old president who has now suffered a serious illness every year for three years and whose doctors restrict his activities.

No president ever took office with more public confidence than Eisenhower. For his first four years he had a charmed political life, amazingly free of criticism. In those years the public was not aware of the astonishing progress of Russia. And those years were a time of rising prosperity when all that seemed necessary was to go on as before and keep down government spending.

All this changed in 1957, the first year of Eisenhower's second term, and three things did it: Eisenhower's own obvious failures in leadership at home; his third illness; and sudden public awareness of how fast Russia was moving, an awareness forced upon it by the Sputniks and the missiles. His illness raised natural questions about his ability to give the kind of full and active leadership needed.

There is no better evidence of how little he understood how much Russia has been doing—or, if he understood it, how slow to action he was—than this:

Last year he offered Congress an education program simply to build more schools, although a commission he named was trying to promote state and private support for training more scientists and engineers. This year, after the newspapers were full of stories about Russia's progress in training scientists, Eisenhower has dropped the classroom idea and wants Congress to vote money for educating scientists.

Two things showed his wobbly

leadership in 1957 at home:

1. The way he fumbled around with his budget trying to decide whether to fight for it or let Congress chop it to bits.

2. His failure to fight for the school aid program that he did propose. He urged it. But when voting time came, and a word from him might have swung its passage, he stood by silently while it was killed.

This country might be able to withstand for a while White House uncertainties on domestic problems. But it knows it can't make less than a full effort in foreign affairs now.

Majority of Steel Plant Chiefs Label '58 'Good Year'

CLEVELAND (AP) — General

managers of 7,500 steel plants believe by a 70 per cent majority that 1958 will be as good or better than 1957 for gross sales volume in metalworking, "Steel" magazine reported today.

And 1957's gross sales volume was a record 140 billion dollars.

The weekly metalworking journal predicted a reduction of about 2 1/2 per cent from last year in the output of steel for ingots and castings.

"Steel users can expect plentiful supplies, improved quality and service and steady to slightly higher prices," the magazine said.

In replies to "Steel's" survey, the metalworking managers looked for an upturn of business in the second half, a slowdown of expansion, high defense spending, increased production costs, rising prices and lower profits.

A "major soft spot for metalworking in the year ahead is the decline in capital equipment spending," the magazine said. Shipments of machinery may be as much as 25 per cent under 1957, "Steel" predicted.

Other steel-consuming industries "should fare about this way," Steel said.

Automobiles — Production of 6 million cars and 1.05 million trucks, compared with 6.15 million cars and 1.08 million trucks in 1957.

Appliances—up 10 per cent with clothes dryers and washers, radios, dishwashers and electric refrigerators the best sellers.

Construction—About 1.6 billion dollars above last year's 47.4 billion dollars.

Transportation — Capital spending of 1.4 billion dollars by railroads, about the same as in 1957, and increased naval and commercial shipbuilding. Production of about 100 transport and 6,500 smaller civilian airplanes.

Electrical machinery — Sales total of 8 billion dollars, compared with 7.2 billion last year and 5.9 billion in 1956.

For the week ended Jan. 5, output for ingots and castings was at 55 per cent of the 1957 rated capacity of 133.5 million tons. Later this week a 1958 capacity incorporating an expansion last year of about 8 million tons will be announced and become the basis for new percentage production reports.

Ohio Constitution Change Proposals Certain To Enliven General Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Proposals to change the state constitution will enliven this year's general election for both voters and office seekers.

Some of the amendments promise to attract as much attention as major state office nominees, who may be drawn into the more controversial issues.

One amendment definitely will be up for decision by voters next November. The total may reach a half dozen.

The one certain to be on the ballot deals with county metropolitan federations. Then there are these possibilities:

A ban on union shops—which proponents call the "right to work" issue and which union leaders say is a complete misnomer. Minimum wage and labor relations laws.

Reapportionment of the Ohio House of Representatives. Appointment instead of election of judges.

A reduction in the lower voting age limit from 21 to 18 years.

Voters last November approved three of four constitutional amendments placed on ballots by the last Legislature. One chance made it easier for populous counties to adopt a charter form of government to solve suburban problems.

A companion proposal to benefit big city areas was held over by the Legislature until the 1958 election. The amendment would permit formation of metropolitan federations in counties containing cities of more than 50,000 population.

Based on the 1950 federal census, the prescribed population yardstick, Ohio has 14 potential federation areas under the amendment proposal. The cities are: Lakewood, Toledo, Lorain, Lima, Akron, Canton, Youngstown, Columbus, Springfield, Dayton, Hamilton and Cincinnati.

All or parts of a county, including townships and municipalities, could join the federations, subject to approval of voters in the affected areas if the constitutional amendment won statewide approval. Charters could provide for exercise of concurrent or exclusive powers by the federation. No provision is proposed for federations extending outside a single county.

Major interest is expected to center in a drive to place a so-called "right to work" amendment in the constitution. Frank J. Egner of Findlay, chairman of an "Ohioans For Right To Work" Committee, said petitions requiring 354,210 valid signatures would be circulated to place the issue on election ballots.

He said the movement is aimed at a provision in "union shop" contracts requiring new employees to join a labor union, usually within 30 days, to keep their jobs. The drive, backed by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, has drawn the fire of organized labor.

Union leaders assert the movement is mis-named in that it involves no right to work. They claim the drive seeks to weaken union bargaining powers sanctioned by the Taft-Hartley Act.

Countering the "right to work" effort, labor leaders threaten to seek an amendment authorizing a state minimum wage law and a state labor relations act.

United Organized Labor of Ohio announced the counter-movement is under study by a committee representing the Ohio CIO Council, Ohio State Federation of Labor, United Mine Workers and Railroad Brotherhoods.

The Ohio Bar Assn. is considering a proposal to amend the constitution for appointment of judges instead of their election. Such appointments would be made by the governor. Attorneys said the aim is to remove judicial candidates from the campaign stump.

Judicial aspirants now campaign largely by appearing at political rallies for platform introductions. They rarely make speeches on their qualifications for office at such meetings, thereby avoiding the political slugs of other candidates. Politicians contend the advantage thus lies with the incumbent or a judicial candidate with vote-getting "name."

Unlike the federal system under which U.S. Supreme Court, appellate and district judges are appointed by the President, the bar association plan would give Ohioans a belated recall vote.

After appointees served for six years, voters would have a chance to say whether incumbents should continue on the bench. The ballot question would ask: "Shall judge X be returned to office?" If a majority of voters said "no," the judicial post would be vacant, to be filled again by appointment.

Judges thus would be subject to a recall vote every six years.

Under that plan, judges would run on their records instead of against other candidates.

Sponsors of an amendment to reapportion Ohio House memberships have taken out petitions to get the proposal on the ballot. Heading the drive are Rep. Frank M. Gorman, John McGinty and James M. Carney, former state representative, all of Cleveland.

The proposal would eliminate a constitutional provision giving each county at least one representative regardless of population. Counties with more than one representative determine the number on a population formula basis. Clevelanders long have complained that on the basis of population they should have a larger delegation in the house. Cuyahoga County had 18 House members during the last session.

They said their delegation represented nearly 1,400,000 people, compared with Vinton County that has one representative for a population of less than 10,800.

The proposal, if approved, would invoke other constitutional provisions for setting up districts of one or more counties for selection of representatives under the population quota system based on the federal census.

Estimates showed that the amendment would strip some 47 of Ohio's 88 counties of their own representatives under current population figures.

The issue of voting rights for 18-year-olds, like that of redistricting, has met consistent rebuff in the Legislature. The young adult suffrage organization of Ohio has established state headquarters, with branches in various cities, for a drive to place the proposal on election ballots.

Backers of the drive point out that Georgia and neighboring Kentucky permit 18-year-olds to vote.

Women's Congressional Club Observing 50th Anniversary

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—It will be a busy year for wives of the nation's lawmakers, full of anniversary hoopla marking the 50th birthday of their own unique Congressional Club, friendly gathering place and center of many diverse activities.

The club, a non-partisan organization made up of wives of members of Congress from all parts of the country, will launch its gala "golden year" with its annual January reception for newcomers to Capitol Hill.

This is always a happy clamor, as cozy as an old-fashioned homecoming with oldtimers warming up the handshakes, the backslapping and vacation anecdotes for each other.

Mrs. John Williams, wife of the Republican senator from Delaware and president of the club, said plans for the half-century birthday celebration were begun early last spring and include a "Golden Anniversary Breakfast" with Mamie Eisenhower as honor guest; a "50 years ago" exhibit, and a special founders' day luncheon. Even the club's money-making cookbook and its program booklet will observe the occasion with new golden covers.

Through all the fancy goings-on, members are assuring themselves they'll "keep cool." As a birthday present they had their handsome headquarters completely air-conditioned.

"We'll be able to stay open longer in the season," explained the first vice president, Mrs. Wilbur D. Mills, wife of the Democratic congressman from Arkansas and member of the club for the past eight years. "We used to close up in June."

Through the years the Congressional Club has been the principal gathering place in the capital, not only for wives, but for all members of the family, including the lawmakers themselves. Informal Sunday afternoon receptions, buffet suppers, and square dances have afforded husbands and wives an opportunity to get better acquainted with their colleagues. Teen-age dances and parties for the younger children have helped dispel some of the loneliness political sons and daughters feel when uprooted from the homebase to come here.

For the wives, something of interest is scheduled for almost every day—Friday programs with tea, Red Cross workshops, bridge and special classes in such things as public speaking and protocol.

Bartender Held In Youth's Death

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held a bartender today for investigation in the gunshot death of an 18-year-old youth after a fight in a tavern parking lot.
David L. Merkle of nearby Miami Heights was shot and killed early Sunday.
Police said the bartender, Arthur Derexel, 46, told them he drew his pistol when Merkle lunged at him and that the youth was shot as they grappled.
Derexel said he ordered Merkle and a companion out of the tavern earlier, but followed them to collect payment for a window that had been kicked out.

Executive Slated For Priesthood

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An aircraft executive will be ordained today to the priesthood of the Episcopal Church but he will continue his business career.
Robert B. Watts, 56, of San Diego, vice president and general counsel for the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., will be presented as a candidate for the priesthood by the Rev. Robert W. Wolterstorff, rector of St. James - by-the-Sea Episcopal Church of San Diego. Watts has served there as assistant since he was ordained a deacon last year.

New Market, Tenn., was the childhood home of Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Bartender Held In Youth's Death

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held a bartender today for investigation in the gunshot death of an 18-year-old youth after a fight in a tavern parking lot.

David L. Merkle of nearby Miami Heights was shot and killed early Sunday.

Police said the bartender, Arthur Derexel, 46, told them he drew his pistol when Merkle lunged at him and that the youth was shot as they grappled.

Derexel said he ordered Merkle and a companion out of the tavern earlier, but followed them to collect payment for a window that had been kicked out.

Executive Slated For Priesthood

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An aircraft executive will be ordained today to the priesthood of the Episcopal Church but he will continue his business career.

Robert B. Watts, 56, of San Diego, vice president and general counsel for the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., will be presented as a candidate for the priesthood by the Rev. Robert W. Wolterstorff, rector of St. James - by - the - Sea Episcopal Church of San Diego. Watts has served there as assistant since he was ordained a deacon last year.

New Market, Tenn., was the childhood home of Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Why Blue Cross Is Best Way

You receive Blue Cross benefits in hospital services — not some cash to apply towards paying your bill. And hospital services come high these days . . . usually more than any allowable cash payments.

Blue Cross provides coverage for necessary hospital service including care in semi-private room. More than 52 million persons in the United States — or every third person — are subscribers. Blue Cross is the hospitals own plan and you get the best service any hospital can furnish. It is the most LIBERAL plan available. Persons under 65 years of age who are self-employed or work where there are fewer than five employees may enroll.

Those working where there are five or more employees are eligible for membership through a payroll deduction group.

For full information on forming a payroll deduction group visit enrollment headquarters. Billed at home members are covered under the $25 deductible contract.

Town and Country Club Gives Hard Times Party

Names Candidate For Teacher Contest

The Town and Country Club held a Hard Times Party to which members' husbands were invited on New Year's night. The party was given in the home of Mrs. Glenn Mathews, Tarlton. Old clothes were the order of the evening and the prize for "worst clothes" went to Nelson Jones, Tarlton.

Games were played and awards went to Mrs. Max Luckhart and Mrs. Dalton Delong.

Guests ate refreshments from tin pie pans, with everybody seated on the floor.

At the very brief business session members voted to send the name of Miss Margaret Chilcote, Salter Creek grade school teacher, into the "Outstanding Teacher" contest.

Husbands were notified that the club's annual dinner for them would take place in March.

When Mrs. Dale Fogler entertains the group in February there will be a white elephant sale.

WINTER FOOT CARE — Good foot care for children includes sprinkling baby powder in shoes. The powder helps relieve excess perspiration.

Busy Little Feet Need Just the Right Shoes

By JEANNE D'ARCY
(King Features Syndicate)

They're cots! They're robbers! They're cowgirls and junks! Whatever they are, they're always on the hop, skip and run. The younger generation "at play" is enough to wear out a watching adult. They never stop for a moment.

All the footwork is fun but, if Mon's wise, she'll take a few precautions to make sure the youngsters' feet develop properly. It's not a bad idea to consult the family doctor on this score. Perhaps special supports are necessary to help young feet grow the proper way.

Don't cut budget corners on shoes for small fry. Buy the best. Go to a reliable store, where the salesman is trained in making a good fit for little feet.

Perhaps Sis can't get the party shoes she wants, or Junior won't be allowed the boots he dreams of, but it's all for the best. Personal preferences must be sacrificed in the interest of selecting shoes that fit properly and provide proper support.

During winter days of snow-stepping and puddle-hopping, children's feet need extra care. Chapping, cold weather soreness and perspiration from overshoes can cause all manner of lament.

It's a good idea to massage the youngster's feet with a soothing baby lotion. One that contains lanolin helps prevent and heal chapping and chafing.

Another precaution is to sprinkle powder inside the children's shoes and socks. It will resist moisture and relieve excessive perspiration.

Even babies too young to slosh about in snow will enjoy having their feet massaged with baby lotion and dusted with powder. It feels good and keeps skin soft and smooth.

After a bath, of course, don't forget to dry feet thoroughly, working the towel in between toes.

It's Not Hard To Tell If You're In The Right Job

By ANNE HEYWOOD
King Features Syndicate

How can you tell if the thing you are doing is right for you, if your lifework is really the one you should have chosen?

The best answer to that is that you love it so much you would do it for fun, even if you had all the money in the world.

Unfortunately, not many of us can say that.

The girl usually hates her job so much that she can't wait to give it up if she marries a man who can afford to have her stay home. The housewife usually hates her domestic duties so much that, as soon as her husband can afford it, she hires a maid to do the bulk of her work. The person who inherits money, resigns his job in the same breath.

On the other hand, there are a lot of rich people who do the work they do just out of sheer love. And there are many others who love their jobs so much that they continue to work, even after the financial need has vanished.

That's how it is with Helen Olsen, who calls herself a "visiting stenographer." Her job takes her to Essex and Union Counties, New Jersey.

Here is what Mrs. Olsen says about it:

"My visiting stenographer service grew out of a necessity to supplement the family income."

"I decided to do this rather than take a full-time job because my children were still very small. At that time, a full-time position would have meant hiring a baby-sitter—and using up all the profits."

"With a rented typewriter and some newspaper advertising, the business was started. It clicked almost immediately, for there was a great need for stenos."

"As the children got older, my hours could be made to coincide with their school hours. They had their lunch at school, and I was able to be on hand before they left and when they returned home. When they had a day off, or were ill, that was my day off, too."

"Eventually, our financial position straightened itself out, and the job that started as a necessity became a hobby. The work has been fascinating and very satisfying."

"That's what work ought to be, but it rarely is. We honestly ought to love what we do with our days, so that we would do it for love if we didn't have to do it for money. We should wake up with a good feeling on contemplating the day ahead, and go to sleep with a satisfied flow of the fun we've had in the job.

WORK-A-DAY WORLD — If you were an heiress would you quit a Work-a-day World? If so, then you don't love your job enough!

It sounds impossible, I know, but there are many people — myself included—who feel that way!

If you'd like to make a start at finding a job you could care for that much, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope care of this newspaper, and I'll send you my pamphlet, "Pointers to Your Basic Interest."

On the other hand, there are a lot of rich people who do the work they do just out of sheer love. And there are many others who love their jobs so much that they continue to work, even after the financial need has vanished.

That's how it is with Helen Olsen, who calls herself a "visiting stenographer." Her job takes her to Essex and Union Counties, New Jersey.

Here is what Mrs. Olsen says about it:

"My visiting stenographer service grew out of a necessity to supplement the family income.

"I decided to do this rather than take a full-time job because my children were still very small. At that time, a full-time position would have meant hiring a baby-sitter—and using up all the profits.

"With a rented typewriter and some newspaper advertising, the business was started. It clicked almost immediately, for there was a great need for stenos.

"As the children got older, my hours could be made to coincide with their school hours. They had their lunch at school, and I was able to be on hand before they left and when they returned home. When they had a day off, or were ill, that was my day off, too.

"Eventually, our financial position straightened itself out, and the job that started as a necessity became a hobby. The work has been fascinating and very satisfying."

That's what work ought to be, but it rarely is. We honestly ought to love what we do with our days, so that we would do it for love if we didn't have to do it for money. We should wake up with a good feeling on contemplating the day ahead, and go to sleep with a satisfied flow of the fun we've had in the job.

WORK-A-DAY WORLD — If you were an heiress would you quit a Work-a-day World? If so, then you don't love your job enough!

It sounds impossible, I know, but there are many people — myself included—who feel that way!

If you'd like to make a start at finding a job you could care for that much, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope care of this newspaper, and I'll send you my pamphlet, "Pointers to Your Basic Interest."

Ohio College Cagers Await Full Schedule This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A full schedule of Ohio college basketball games is on tap this week as teams which had a Christmas vacation return to action and others settle down after holiday tournaments.

Ohio schools will be involved in 24 games in the next six days, 21 of these being conference battles.

Saturday will highlight the week with 23 games, including 12 conference tilts in all six leagues in which Ohio schools play.

Ohio State's invasion of Wisconsin will top that night's card. The Buckeyes broke off a disastrous seven-game losing streak last week, defeating Yale, then opened their Big Ten season with an upset victory over Michigan State 70-56.

Going into last Saturday's game at Columbus the Bucks and the Spartans had opposite records: Ohio State 1-7 and Michigan State 7-1.

Cincinnati also will share in the state spotlight. The Bearcats, fifth ranked nationally, will be out to boost their position with the "co-operation" of Oklahoma State and North Texas State.

The Bearcats will be at Stillwater, Okla., tonight in a Missouri Valley Conference game. They hope to be able to use their big 6-foot, 9-inch center, Connie Dierking. Dierking broke a bone in his foot over a week ago, but doctors reported the big senior may be able to see some action against the Aggies.

With Dierking out of the lineup, Cincinnati suffered its only defeat this season, 79-73 against Bradley. The Bearcats face North Texas on Saturday in Cincinnati.

In the Mid-American Conference - leading Miami will play Xavier tonight in Cincinnati, then take on cellar-dwelling Western Michigan in a conference fray Saturday at Oxford.

Wittenberg (3-0), the Ohio Conference leader, will have two loop games this week. The Lutherans meet Ohio Wesleyan Wednesday in Springfield, then journey to Columbus Saturday to play Capital. Two other undefeated teams in the Ohio Conference, Akron and Oberlin, each with 2-0 league records, have a game apiece scheduled in the loop.

Akron hosts Wooster Saturday and Oberlin will be at Tiffin the same night to play Heidelberg. The Mid-Ohio League lead has the possibility of going into a tie this week. The current leader, Findlay (2-0), will be playing non-league foes while Wilmington (1-0) will take on a league opponent, Ohio Northern, Saturday in Ada.

John Carroll (1-0) will have a chance to build a comfortable lead in the Presidents' Conference. The Blue Streaks meet two league teams during the week, Case (0-1) on Wednesday and Wayne (1-1) on Saturday. Western Reserve (1-1), the only other team in the league, will play non-conference Akron Tuesday.

Several top non-conference and independent games are also scheduled during the week. Cincinnati and Xavier will play Hall and Iona, respectively. The state's "winningest" team, Steubenville (12-1), will attempt to make it 15-1 against St. Vincent, Alliance and Gannon. Dayton will be in Buffalo, N. Y., Saturday to play Canisius.

Centralia Five In 68-41 Win Over Indians

The Centralia Bulldogs blasted a smaller, but fighting, Stoutsville quintet Saturday night for a 68 to 41 victory. Floyd Myers, the mammoth 280-pound giant for the Bulldogs completely dominated the boards and provided Centralia's margin of victory.

Myers, who can't be moved from underneath the bucket, led the way for Centralia with 31 points on 14 field goals in 17 attempts and three free throws. It was by far Myers' best night and Coach Dick Smith finally got the big boy to shoot more often. Floyd hits from 8 to 10 feet out on a jump shot and, naturally, his shots can't be stopped.

The Bulldogs and the Indians played even through the first quarter with Centralia holding a slim lead 10 to 9 at quarter's end. Centralia got its attack into high gear in the second period to take a 27 to 14 lead at halftime.

Stoutsville, which bases its offense on Ronny Hill and Ray Reinhold under the bank board, couldn't work it due to Myers and a coming sophomore rebounder, Elwood King. The Indians continued to fall behind as Centralia built a 44 to 27 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Centralia hit 29 goals of 65 attempts for a respectable 45 percent. The Bulldogs hit on 10 of 15 free throw opportunities for 67 percent. Stoutsville shot 23 percent from the floor on 14 field goals in 60 attempts. From the charity line Stoutsville also trailed the Bulldogs with 49 percent on 13 free throws of 27 attempts.

THE BULLDOGS garnered 36 rebounds during the game against Stoutsville's 27. The Indians had 20 turnovers which Centralia capitalized upon.

Bobby Dearth followed Myers in the scoring with 12 points and Bobby Shaw had 11 for another low scoring night as Stoutsville was watching the little setshot closely. Hill led Stoutsville with 14 points and Crites followed with 12. Centralia stands 9 and 3 on the season and Stoutsville is barely on the winning side of the ledger with a 5 and 4 record.

DeMolay Five In 78-27 Win

The Circleville DeMolay cagers blasted Mt. Vernon DeMolay; 78-27, at the Park of Roses Recreation Center in Columbus yesterday.

The Circleville quintet, coached by Bill Ankrum, is competing in a league of DeMolay teams in this district.

Circleville's offensive attack centered around the scoring of Tom Krinn and Pete Martin. Krinn smacked the hoop for 24 points and Martin collected 22. Eddie Tomlinson was the third man in double figures with 18 tallies. Larry Tigner played a stellar floor game and scored seven points.

J. Baube was high for Mt. Vernon with 10. C. Taylor assisted with nine.

Coach Ankrum's team is not scheduled again until February 9. The cagers then are scheduled for action five weeks in a row, including participation in the DeMolay State Tournament.

Only 2 Major College Teams Still Lossless

10-0 Records Held by Mississippi State and West Virginia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With most conference races barely under way, only two ranking powers in college basketball remained undefeated today—an unusual, if not unprecedented, state of affairs for so early in the year.

West Virginia and Mississippi State each have 10-0 records. State gets its chance to extend its streak tonight against Alabama in a Southeastern Conference game.

State's biggest threat is Jack Kubisyn, third in the league scoring race. He's only 5-10 but has been hitting at a 22.8-point-per-game pace.

If State and West Virginia are looking around for worries, they only need consider some of the following:

1. No one will hazard a guess at what will happen in the Big Eight, which begins operations tomorrow night. Kansas, the defending champion (and NCAA runner-up last season, lost to Oklahoma State with Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain ill. Tuesday's game against Oklahoma probably will tell the Chamberlain story. He's supposed to be ready.

2. Maryland, big wheel in the Atlantic Coast Conference since North Carolina was beaten, has lost two games in the past week. Clemson dumped them 73-66 Saturday night. The Terps play North Carolina Saturday.

3. The Southwest Conference is in a tizzy. Texas Tech, the brand new league member, whipped preseason favorite Rice Saturday. Tonight Tech gets a shot at the current choice, Texas Christian.

4. Michigan State, one of the monsters of the Big Ten which ran up seven victories in a row at the start of the season, was

Tigers Prep For Wilmington

Coach Dick Boyd's Circleville Tigers will be seeking their fifth straight win and seventh in nine starts when the Hurricanes of Wilmington come here Friday night.

Plenty of action appears to be in store. Both teams currently are deadlocked for second place in the South Central Ohio League with records of two wins and one loss. Washington C. H. leads the loop with three wins and one defeat.

The Tigers' latest victory was a 61-56 decision over Hillsboro Friday. The local cagers' only league loss was at the hands of Washington C. H. several weeks ago.

beaten 70-56 by Ohio State, a team that was clubbed by seven straight foes.

West Virginia has two games this week. They meet Villanova Wednesday and George Washington Saturday.

Five Games Slated Tomorrow For County, Area Quintets

A full round of basketball is scheduled this week for county and area high school quintets.

Action starts Tuesday night with five games on tap. Good Hope is at Jackson, Monroe at Mt. Sterling, Pickaway at Amanda, Walnut at Union and South Bloomingville at Laurelville.

The game was then resume Friday night with 10 more games slated. Ashville is at Williamsport, Atlanta at Jackson, Pickaway at Darby, Walnut at Monroe, New Holland at Salter Creek, Scioto at Amanda, Laurelville at Rockbridge, Bainbridge at Kingston, Stoutsville at Bremen and Centralia at Huntington.

Three more tilts are carded Saturday night. Madison South comes to Ashville for a Darby Valley League encounter, Walnut enters Centralia and Darby travels to Zaleski.

PERHAPS the most interest will be focused on the Pickaway-Darby duel. The Trojans are leading the Pickaway County loop with five wins and no losses. Pickaway, with a 2-3 league record, could prove to be a tough nut to crack.

New Holland, 4-1 in the league, will put its second place record on the block at Salter Creek which is 2-3 in loop play.

Another game of interest should be the Ashville-Williamsport fracas. The Broncos are 4-1 in the league and Williamsport is 4-2.

Ross County league play will be highlighted by the Centraia-Huntington match, both top contenders for loop honors.

Kent State Coach Defends Tactics in Defeating Toledo

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Bill Bertka, Kent State University's new basketball coach, today disputed charges that control ball tactics, such as his Tolden Flashes used in defeating Toledo University, would hurt attendance at basketball games.

Toledo coach Eddie Melvin remarked after his Rockets lost 25-17 to Kent Saturday night that if such tactics were used too often it would hurt attendance and would hurt the Mid-American Conference.

Dr. James Long, Toledo University athletic director, commented that "if Kent plays this kind of ball at Toledo we may have to give some spectators their money back."

Saturday night's game—which marked Bertka's coaching debut in a Mid-American Conference game—brought occasional boos from the crowd of 2,500. Four spectators started a card game at one end of the court during the first half, when a total of only nine points was scored by both sides.

Defending his tactics, Bertka said simply:

"If we had played Toledo's game, we would have lost."

Bertka isn't used to losing. At Hancock Junior College in Santa Maria, Calif., where he coached for three years before coming to Kent this year, his teams produced a win string of 41 straight over a two-year period.

The Kent coach said he felt the officials in the first half "should have required Toledo to be more aggressive."

Chicago Cards Seeking Another Grid Coach

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cardinals, tops in the National Football League for coaching changes, are now seeking their 19th head football coach.

Ray Richards, who held the post for three successive seasons, resigned Saturday night for "the best interests of everyone concerned."

The expected action by the 50-year-old coach followed a disappointing 3-9 season climaxed by a 27-2 defeat by Pittsburgh.

2 Pros Face Punishment For Flareup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two veterans and perhaps other players today faced possible punishment by National Basketball Assn. for a Sunday flareup.

Joe Holup of Detroit and Charley Share of St. Louis were tossed out of Sunday afternoon's game, won by the Hawks 95-93, by referee Mendy Rudolph after a fight that also involved other players on both teams.

Rudolph said he ejected Holup and Share because they came off the bench and started slugging and punching.

The Hawks were leading 66-43 in the third period when the fireworks started as Detroit's George Yardley and St. Louis' Jack McMahon got into a scramble. Then both benches were emptied and punches were thrown all over the court. Police were called in to restore order.

Bob Pettit of St. Louis, playing with a heavy cast protecting a fractured bone in one hand, paced the scorers with 26 points. Yardley, the league's leading scorer, was held to 11.

The victory permitted the Hawks to retain their nine-game lead in the Western Division over the Cincinnati Royals, who edged the New York Knicks 101-100.

The Syracuse Nats chattered up their second straight over the weekend. They beat Boston 115-106 Saturday and Philadelphia Sunday 111-96. The Warriors also lost Saturday, dropping an 81-78 decision to Detroit.

Several top non-conference and independent games are also scheduled during the week.

Cincinnati and Xavier will play Hall and Iona, respectively. The state's "winningest" team, Steubenville (12-1), will attempt to make it 15-1 against St. Vincent. Alliance and Gannon. Dayton will be in Buffalo, N. Y., Saturday to play Canisius.

Centralia Five In 68-41 Win Over Indians

The Centralia Bulldogs blasted a smaller, but fighting, Stoutsville quintet Saturday night for a 68 to 41 victory. Floyd Myers, the mammoth 280-pound guard for the Bulldogs completely dominated the boards and provided Centralia's margin of victory.

Myers, who can't be moved from underneath the bucket, led the way for Centralia with 31 points on 14 field goals in 17 attempts and three free throws. It was by far Myers' best night and Coach Dick Smith finally got the big boy to shoot more often. Floyd hits from 8 to 10 feet out on a jump shot and, naturally, his shots can't be stopped.

The Bulldogs and the Indians played even through the first quarter with Centralia holding a slim lead 10 to 9 at quarter's end. Centralia got its attack into high gear in the second period to take a 27 to 14 lead at halftime.

Stoutsville, which bases its offense on Ronny Hill and Ray Reinhold under the bank board, couldn't work it due to Myers and a coming sophomore rebounder, Elwood King. The Indians continued to fall behind as Centralia built a 44 to 27 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Centralia hit 29 goals of 65 attempts for a respectable 45 percent. The Bulldogs hit on 10 of 15 free throw opportunities for 67 percent. Stoutsville shot 23 percent from the floor on 14 field goals in 60 attempts. From the charity line Stoutsville also trailed the Bulldogs with 49 percent on 13 free throws of 27 attempts.

THE BULLDOGS garnered 36 rebounds during the game against Stoutsville's 27. The Indians had 20 turnovers which Centralia capitalized upon.

Bobby Dearth followed Myers in the scoring with 12 points and Bobby Shaw had 11 for another low scoring night as Stoutsville was watching the little setshot closely. Hill led Stoutsville with 14 points and Crites followed with 12.

Centralia stands 9 and 3 on the season and Stoutsville is barely on the winning side of the ledger with a 5 and 4 record.

Hawaii All-Stars Romp in Hula Bowl
HONOLULU (AP) — The Hawaii All-Stars, fortified with pros, grabbed a 33-0 first quarter lead over their collegiate counterparts and won the Hula Bowl game Sunday, 53-34.

The five-touchdown passing of quarterback Tobin Rote of the Detroit Lions and the line-plunging of Joe Perry of San Francisco proved too much for the college array.

The 49er back caught a TD pass from Rote and ground out three more six-pointers on line plunges. The collegians finally came out of their doldrums in the third period after trailing 40-7.

Heisman Trophy winner John Crow of Texas A&M scored three touchdowns for the collegians. Michigan State's Walt Kowalczyk also tallied twice.

DeMolay Five In 78-27 Win

The Circleville DeMolay cagers blasted Mt. Vernon DeMolay; 78-27, at the Park of Roses Recreation Center in Columbus yesterday.

The Circleville quintet, coached by Bill Ankrom, is competing in a league of DeMolay teams in this district.

Circleville's offensive attack centered around the scoring of Tom Krinn and Pete Martin.

Krinn smacked the hoop for 24 points and Martin collected 22. Eddie Tomlinson was the third man in double figures with 18 tallies. Larry Tigner played a stellar floor game and scored seven points.

J. Baube was high for Mt. Vernon with 10. C. Taylor assisted with nine.

Coach Ankrom's team is not scheduled again until February 9. The cagers then are scheduled for action five weeks in a row, including participation in the DeMolay State Tournament.

Notre Dame Voted As Comeback Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Notre Dame, a team that won only two of 10 games in 1956 but rebounded to halt mighty Oklahoma's 47-game winning streak and post a 7-3 record for 1957, was voted the comeback team of the year today.

The annual year-end poll of the Associated Press gave coach Terry Brennan's Fighting Irish an overwhelming total of 105 first place ballots as Notre Dame beat out the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

In the nationwide balloting, 211 sportswriters cast 105 first place ballots for Notre Dame and 23 for Cleveland.

Only 2 Major College Teams Still Lossless

10-0 Records Held by Mississippi State And West Virginia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With most conference races barely under way, only two ranking powers in college basketball remained undefeated today — an unusual, if not unprecedented, state of affairs for so early in the year.

West Virginia and Mississippi State each have 10-0 records. State gets its chance to extend its streak tonight against Alabama in a Southeastern Conference game.

State's biggest threat is Jack Kubiszyn, third in the league scoring race. He's only 5-10 but has been hitting at a 22.8-point-per-game pace.

If State and West Virginia are looking around for worries, they only need consider some of the following:

1. No one will hazard a guess at what will happen in the Big Eight, which begins operations tomorrow night. Kansas, the defending champion (and NCAA runner-up last season, lost to Oklahoma State with Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain ill. Tuesday's game against Oklahoma probably will tell the Chamberlain story. He's supposed to be ready.

2. Maryland, big wheel in the Atlantic Coast Conference since North Carolina was beaten, has lost two games in the past week. Clemson dumped them 73-66 Saturday night. The Terps play North Carolina Saturday.

3. The Southwest Conference is in a tizzy. Texas Tech, the brand new league member, whipped preseason favorite Rice Saturday. Tonight Tech gets a shot at the current choice, Texas Christian.

4. Michigan State, one of the monsters of the Big Ten which ran up seven victories in a row at the start of the season, was

Tigers Prep For Wilmington

Coach Dick Boyd's Circleville Tigers will be seeking their fifth straight win and seventh in nine starts when the Hurricanes of Wilmington come here Friday night.

Plenty of action appears to be in store. Both teams currently are deadlocked for second place in the South Central Ohio League with records of two wins and one loss.

Washington C. H. leads the loop with three wins and one defeat.

The Tigers' latest victory was a 61-56 decision over Hillsboro Friday. The local cagers' only league loss was at the hands of Washington C. H. several weeks ago.

beaten 70-56 by Ohio State, a team that was clubbed by seven straight foes.

West Virginia has two games this week. They meet Villanova Wednesday and George Washington Saturday.

Five Games Slated Tomorrow For County, Area Quintets

A full round of basketball is scheduled this week for county and area high school quintets.

Action starts Tuesday night with five games on tap. Good Hope is at Jackson, Monroe at Mt. Sterling, Pickaway at Amanda, Walnut at Union and South Bloomingville at Laurelville.

The game wars then resume Friday night with 10 more games slated. Ashville is at Williamsport, Atlanta at Jackson, Pickaway at Darby, Walnut at Monroe, New Holland at Saltcreek, Scioto at Amanda, Laurelville at Rockbridge, Bainbridge at Kingston, Stoutsville at Bremen and Centralia at Huntington.

Three more tilts are carded Saturday night. Madison South comes to Ashville for a Darby Valley League encounter, Walnut enters tain Rushville and Darby travels to Zaleski.

Kent State Coach Defends Tactics in Defeating Toledo

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Bill Bertka, Kent State University's new basketball coach, today disputed charges that control ball tactics, such as his Tolden Flashes used in defeating Toledo University, would hurt attendance at basketball games.

Toledo coach Eddie Melvin remarked after his Rockets lost 25-17 to Kent Saturday night that if such tactics were used too often it would hurt attendance and would hurt the Mid-American Conference.

Dr. James Long, Toledo University athletic director, commented that "if Kent plays this kind of ball at Toledo we may have to give some spectators their money back."

Saturday night's game—which marked Bertka's coaching debut in a Mid-American Conference game—brought occasional boos from the crowd of 2,500. Four spectators started a card game at one end of the court during the first half, when a total of only nine points was scored by both sides.

Defending his tactics, Bertka said simply: "If we had played Toledo's game, we would have lost."

Bertka isn't used to losing. At Hancock Junior College in Santa Maria, Calif., where he coached for three years before coming to Kent this year, his teams produced a win string of 41 straight over a two-year period.

The Kent coach said he felt the officials in the first half "should have required Toledo to be more aggressive."

Business Dip May Affect Farm Program

Ag Agency Expects Congress To Be Guided By Economic Trends

WASHINGTON (AP)—The current dip in business activity may have a strong bearing on what Congress does about controversial farm legislation. Agriculture Department officials said today they expect the economic situation to strengthen demands of some farm leaders for higher rather than lower price supports as advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Benson. These officials recalled that some farm state legislators have predicted an economic downturn would develop unless action was taken to boost agricultural income. Since 1950, farm income has increased only about 13 per cent compared with about 60 per cent for the economy as a whole. Benson is expected, his aides said to fight the notion that higher support prices should be set up to bolster farm income. Benson says big farm income depends on a big volume of sales at "reasonable" prices.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Foreign Agricultural Service reports that Turkey and Iran appear to be potentially good markets for U. S. dairy products. Recombinant milk and ice cream—made from U. S. produced non-dry milk and anhydrous milk fat—were introduced at the recent international trade fair at Izmir, Turkey.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Margarine production set a new record of nearly 1,450,000,000 pounds in 1957, the National Assn. of Margarine Manufacturers reports. This is 6 per cent above 1956.

WASHINGTON (AP)—California led all states in the slaughter of cattle during the first 11 months of 1957.

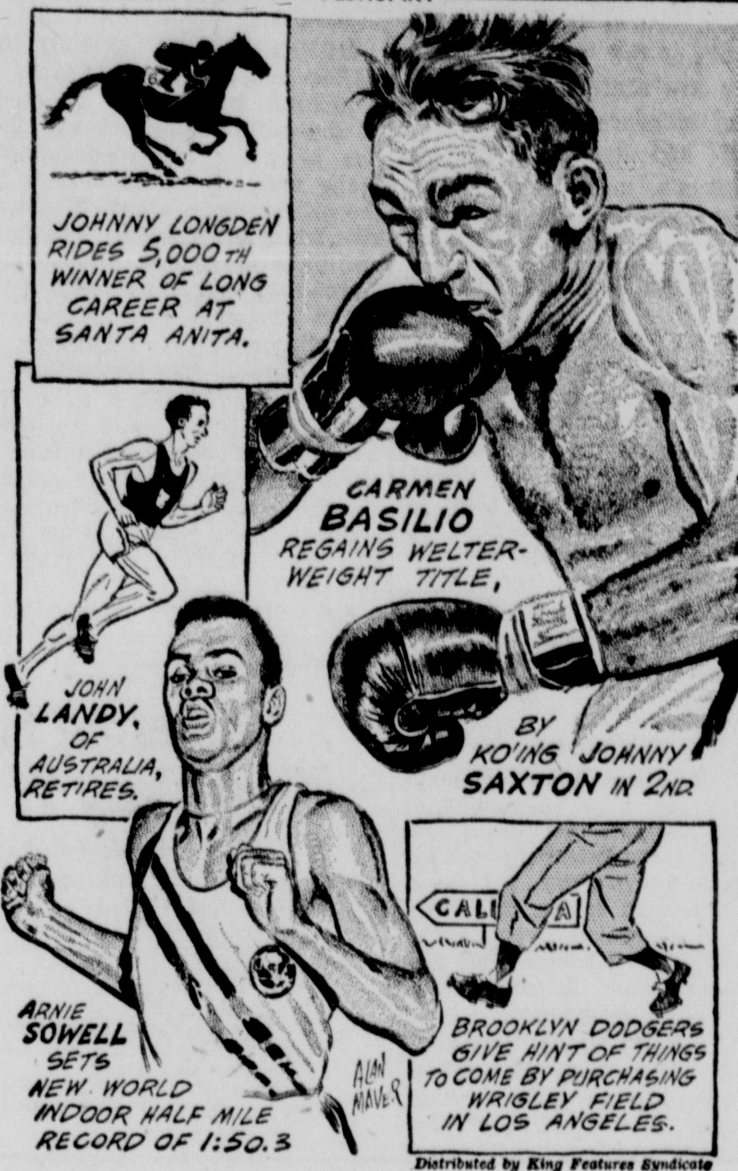

Reporting this, the Agriculture Department put the California total at 2,240,000 head. Illinois was second with 1,972,000, Iowa third with 1,951,000, Nebraska fourth with 1,668,000, Texas fifth with 1,541,000, and Minnesota sixth with 1,337,000.

In the slaughter of hogs, Iowa was far out in front with 10,160,000 head. Next came Illinois with 5,727,000, followed in order by Minnesota with 4,680,000, Ohio with 3,890,000, Indiana with 3,855,000, Nebraska with 3,352,000 and Missouri with 3,261,000.

More Rock 'n' Roll Coming But Hopeful Signs Seen Too

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What does 1958 promise in popular music? More rock 'n' roll, I'm afraid, but there are some hopeful signs, too. This is according to Randy Woods, founder and president of Dot Records, and he's a man who should know. Randy is the soft-spoken Southern boy who parlayed a record store in Gallatin, Tenn., into a releasing company which was sold to Paramount Pictures for three million dollars. He is still the head of Dot and last year piloted the firm to the highest sales of pop records in the industry. "I figure we have sold between 17 and 18 million units in 1957, compared to 14 million the year before," Randy reported. "From all I can gather, 1958 is going to be an even bigger year for the industry." I asked Randy what the new year will bring in the way of music. "There will be more rock 'n' roll," he predicted. "Actually, rock 'n' roll is nothing new; it's

REVIEW OF THE YEAR—By Alan Mavere FEBRUARY

Brewer Holds Lead In Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The men have been separated from the boys in the $35,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

Gay Brewer Jr., 25, a comparative youngster on the tourney trail, leads by a stroke in today's final scramble for the $7,000 first-place money. The field was cut to 76 for fourth round play, with scores of 221 or lower qualifying.

Brewer climaxed a brilliant third round by dropping a 15-foot putt on the 18th hole.

A loud roar exploded from the gallery when the ball plunked home, giving the husky young pro a brilliant 67, and 207 for 54 holes. His total was a stroke better than Frank Stranahan of Toledo, who also turned in a 67.

Ohio WAC Hangs Self

Dark Horses Stand Out in Big Ten Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Illinois and Michigan, a pair of dark horses who fashioned foreign court victories in Big Ten basketball openers Saturday night, return home tonight to resume conference activity.

Illinois, having bumped Wisconsin, 64-59, takes on Iowa, victimized by Michigan, 73-65, Michigan takes on Wisconsin. Both Illinois and Michigan should win tonight but the Illini might have trouble since they'll be minus two of their regulars.

Guard Roger Taylor suffered a shoulder separation against the Badgers and Capt. John Paul, who didn't suit up for Wisconsin might miss several more games because of a bad back.

Indiana, 68 - 65 winner over Northwestern, is at Purdue in tonight's only other conference game. Minnesota, having beaten Purdue, 83-76, journeys to Kansas State in a non-league contest.

Saturday's big surprise was provided by Ohio State in a 70-56 triumph over Michigan State. The Spartans won seven of their eight pre-conference tilts and were solid favorites for the title.

Four Big Ten games are scheduled Saturday with Ohio State at Wisconsin in a regionally televised afternoon tilt. Saturday night finds Michigan at Northwestern, Illinois at Indiana and Purdue at Michigan State.

Iowa State Coach Eyes Position at Texas A&M

HOUSTON (AP)—Iowa State football coach Jim Myers left this weekend for Philadelphia and the NCAA convention after holding a weekend conference with authorities at Texas A&M College.

The Houston Post said Myers was a leading contender for the A&M coaching job vacated by Bear Bryant, who went to Alabama.

Business Dip May Affect Farm Program

Ag Agency Expects Congress To Be Guided By Economic Trends

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The current dip in business activity may have a strong bearing on what Congress does about controversial farm legislation.

Agriculture Department officials said today they expect the economic situation to strengthen demands of some farm leaders for higher rather than lower price supports as advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

These officials recalled that some farm state legislators have predicted an economic downturn would develop unless action were taken to boost agricultural income.

Since 1950, farm income has increased only about 13 per cent compared with about 60 per cent for the economy as a whole.

Benson is expected, his aides said to fight the notion that higher support prices should be set up to bolster farm income.

Benson says big farm income depends on a big volume of sales at "reasonable" prices.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Foreign Agricultural Service reports that Turkey and Iran appear to be potentially good markets for U. S. dairy products.

Recombined milk and ice cream—made from U. S. produced non-fat dry milk and anhydrous milk fat—were introduced at the recent international trade fair at Izmir, Turkey.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Margarine production set a new record of nearly 1,450,000,000 pounds in 1957, the National Assn. of Margarine Manufacturers reports.

This is 6 per cent above 1956.

WASHINGTON (AP)—California led all states in the slaughter of cattle during the first 11 months of 1957.

Reporting this, the Agriculture Department put the California total at 2,240,000 head. Illinois was second with 1,972,000, Iowa third with 1,951,000, Nebraska fourth with 1,668,000, Texas fifth with 1,541,000, and Minnesota sixth with 1,337,000.

In the slaughter of hogs, Iowa was far out in front with 10,160,000 head. Next came Illinois with 5,727,000, followed in order by Minnesota with 4,680,000, Ohio with 3,890,000, Indiana with 3,855,000, Nebraska with 3,352,000 and Missouri with 3,261,000.

More Rock 'n' Roll Coming But Hopeful Signs Seen Too

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What does 1958 promise in popular music? More rock 'n' roll, I'm afraid, but there are some hopeful signs, too. This is according to Randy Woods, founder and president of Dot Records, and he's a man who should know.

Randy is the soft-spoken Southern boy who parlayed a record store in Gallatin, Tenn., into a releasing company which was sold to Paramount Pictures for three million dollars. He is still the head of Dot and last year piloted the firm to the highest sales of pop records in the industry.

"I figure we have sold between 17 and 18 million units in 1957, compared to 14 million the year before," Randy reported. "From all I can gather, 1958 is going to be an even bigger year for the industry."

I asked Randy what the new year will bring in the way of music.

"There will be more rock 'n' roll," he predicted. "Actually, rock 'n' roll is nothing new; it's

Brewer Holds Lead In Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The men have been separated from the boys in the $35,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

Gay Brewer Jr., 25, a comparative youngster on the tourney trail, leads by a stroke in today's final scramble for the $7,000 first-place money.

The field was cut to 76 for fourth round play, with scores of 221 or lower qualifying.

Brewer climaxed a brilliant third round by dropping a 15-foot putt on the 18th hole.

A loud roar exploded from the gallery when the ball plunked home, giving the husky young pro a brilliant 67, and 207 for 54 holes. His total was a stroke better than Frank Stranahan of Toledo, who also turned in a 67.

Dark Horses Stand Out in Big Ten Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Illinois and Michigan, a pair of dark horses who fashioned foreign court victories in Big Ten basketball games Saturday night, return home tonight to resume conference activity.

Illinois, having bumped Wisconsin, 64-59, takes on Iowa, victimized by Michigan, 73-65. Michigan takes on Wisconsin. Both Illinois and Michigan should win tonight but the Illini might have trouble since they'll be minus two of their regulars.

Guard Roger Taylor suffered a shoulder separation against the Badgers and Capt. John Paul, who didn't suit up for Wisconsin might miss several more games because of a bad back.

Indiana, 68-65 winner over Northwestern, is at Purdue in tonight's only other conference game. Minnesota, having beaten Purdue, 83-76, journeys to Kansas State in a non-league contest.

Saturday's big surprise was provided by Ohio State in a 70-56 triumph over Michigan State. The Spartans won seven of their eight pre-conference tilts and were solid favorites for the title.

Four Big Ten games are scheduled Saturday with Ohio State at Wisconsin in a regionally televised afternoon tilt. Saturday night finds Michigan at Northwestern, Illinois at Indiana and Purdue at Michigan State.

Iowa State Coach Eyes Position at Texas A&M

HOUSTON (AP)—Iowa State football coach Jim Myers left this weekend for Philadelphia and the NCAA convention after holding a weekend conference with authorities at Texas A&M College.

The Houston Post said Myers was a leading contender for the A&M coaching job vacated by Bear Bryant, who went to Alabama.

U.S. Business Places Accent On Selling Now

Production Capacity Proven; Present Job Is To Lure Buyers

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The accent has bounced from production to selling.

In most industries today there is plenty of capacity to produce and plenty of raw materials at hand. A number of factories, mills and mines are operating on schedules much more leisurely than a year ago.

This is the year of sales effort for them aimed at beating the other fellow to orders from fabricators, middlemen and merchants.

The position of individual stores depends both on how well they sold their goods before Christmas and on how they ordered last fall. But, in general, retail inventories seem to be fairly well in line.

Although final figures aren't in, belated Christmas shopping appears to have brought total retail volume for the year to the 200 billion dollar mark for the first time. Higher prices this year make any gain in unit volume look doubtful.

The merchant who ordered cautiously last fall and sold in good volume just before Christmas doesn't seem to be hurting. But his problem now seems to be one of luring the consumer out of the careful penny mood into which he is falling.

Personal income may be still near the peak. But, pinched by the high cost of living and aware of idle production capacity, consumers are proving harder to pry loose from their money. And they are fast on their feet today in comparing prices at different stores and in haggling for a bargain.

The silver lining to this for business is the opportunity offered to the smart merchandiser and to the advertising man with savvy.

But it doesn't keep the merchant from being in another bind, this time between the shopper wary of price boosts and the steady rise in his own costs.

To squeeze out, he'll have to learn how to get more sales per employee and more display and sales volume per square foot of costly store space.

Cincy BUC Opens In New Offices

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation opened its new but makeshift office here today after a disastrous fire that burned out the old Cincinnati headquarters.

Workers toiled over the weekend to set up new offices at the onetime Alms and Doepeke store a few blocks from the old site.

The fire that started last Thursday noon destroyed the old office and its records. Duplicate records were dispatched from Columbus BUC headquarters, but about 3,000 recent jobless, for whom there were no records, must now reapply.

8 Accused Of Communism Going on Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—Eight alleged Communist party members go on trial in U. S. District Court today on charges of conspiracy to violate the Taft-Hartley law.

Marie Reed Haug and her husband, Fred, were members of the Communist party and were union officials, the government charges, when they filed non-Communist affidavits with the National Labor Relations Board.

Six other defendants were indicted for persuading others to file false affidavits with the NLRB. Issuing, receiving and distributing Communist party directives to violate the Taft-Hartley act, which requires the filing of non-Communist affidavits by union officers, was among the overt acts charged in the indictment.

Mrs. Haug was a business agent for the United Electrical Workers when she filed affidavits in 1951 and 1952. Fred Haug was associated with the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers when he filed in 1951. Both unions had been expelled from the CIO on charges of being Communist dominated.

Eight prominent Communist party figures, convicted in Cleveland, New York and Pittsburgh trials for Smith act violations, were named as co-conspirators, but not defendants in the indictment returned last January.

Trial was delayed when six defendants said they could not afford attorneys. The Haugs retained their own counsel. Because federal statutes do not permit compensation for court-appointed attorneys, Judge Paul C. Weick, who will hear the case, had difficulty designating defense lawyers.

Hillary's Dream—Unclimbable Peaks

By HOYT McAFEE
Central Press Association Correspondent

PASADENA, Calif. — "First, I'll try to reach the South Pole and take a look around down there. No explorer has been there, you know, since 1911."

"I expect it to be a real workout, a tough chore, yes. But I don't think it will be as rough as Tensing Norkay and I had it when we climbed Mt. Everest (world's highest mountain peak) on May 29, 1953."

In those foregoing words Sir Edmund Hillary revealed his South Pole trip to this writer several months ago.

The famed adventurer reached the Pole January 3, winning a race against a British expedition led by Dr. Vivian Fuchs.

During his lecture tour in the United States, I spent several hours with him after his Pasadena talk. He mentioned, by way of an aside, his interest in what he termed "a side diversion." He clarified that thusly:

"I SURELY won't tackle the North Pole. But, the South Pole is something else. That has been a secret goal of mine since I was a young chap in New Zealand."

"Mt. Everest was my number one dream, as you Americans would say it. Now that has been fulfilled; and the South Pole has bounced back from my boyhood dreams to haunt me."

As our conversation touched and dwelt on many phases of exploring and mountain climbing, Sir Edmund was in his happiest element. He remarked at one point, "If I do head for the South Pole, that will be only a warm-up for a project even more important to me."

"I'd like to explore the South Pole area; then get ready for the two toughest mountain peaks in the world. I won't be satisfied 'til I've seen what they look like—from the top."

He identified the two unconquered toughies as Baruntse and Chamlung, part of the Himalayan chain, slightly over 24,000 feet high; and they represent the number one challenge in mountain climbing today. That is, in the eyes of Sir Edmund.

And he enlightened me further. "When I take on the Baruntse and Chamlung projects, I certainly hope to have my best friend, Tensing Norkay, at my side. I also regard him as the ablest mountain climber in the world."

At another point I asked him how he'd prepare himself for the South Pole venture. "Oh, I'll go out and whip around some frozen-over lakes and ponds on week-ends," he replied, in all seriousness.

"How will you go about toughening yourself up for the Baruntse and Chamlung expeditions?" I wanted to know. His response: "I'll fall back on my usual method: go out, find some high, rocky hills, and hike up and down them."

"THAT'S HOW I keep in trim." And with a sly grin he reminded me, "It's a lot more fun—and a lot easier—than lecturing!"

Postscript: Sir Edmund Hillary strikes you, outwardly, as being the most relaxed and casual guy in the world. Beneath his unruffled exterior, however, lies his fervent dedication to his foremost loves — exploring and mountain climbing.

Library Has 14 New Films for January

Fourteen new films are on hand for patrons of the Pickaway County District Library during January it was announced today.

The films, all 16 mm. sound, are available at the library for all interested parties. They range from a 10-minute fable "Monkey Who Would Be King" to a 22-minute production on the Constitution of the United States.

The new films are:

ANIMAL HOME, 11 min., B&W — Shows where animals live—in trees, in the ground, and in the water. Not only are settings and exterior scenes of different homes shown, but views are provided inside such homes as those of the trap-door spider, raccoon, skunk, and wood mouse.

BIRDS OF OUR STORYBOOKS, 10 min., Color—The robin, cardinal, crow, owl, blue jay, sparrow, redheaded woodpecker, wren, and sea gull, birds which children encounter most frequently in their stories and texts, are shown both as they appear in book illustrations and as they are in their natural settings.

CHILDREN OF GERMANY: IN THE RHINELAND, 13 min., B&W — Four boys are shown on a day's excursion in the Rhineland. As they sail with the pilot of a barge from Kauo to St. Goar, navigation and the Rhine's industrial importance are explained. The boys climb the Spitzstein and see vineyards, potato patches, castles and historic villages of the Rhine Valley.

CHOTU AND HIS JUNGLE ELEPHANT, 11 min., B&W—Story of the elephant and his role in rural Indian life, shows how he serves as a pet, a valued possession, and a loyal worker, points out his important physical characteristics, as well as his gentle and playful nature.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES, 22 min., B&W — Relates the story of the making of the Constitution of the United States. Dramatizes the conditions which led to the demand for the creation of a stronger federal government, the events leading up to a convening of the Constitutional Convention, major developments in the work of the convention, the underlying principles of government embodied in the Constitution, and the struggle over ratification.

IRAN — BETWEEN TWO

Cleveland, arrived Sunday at her sister's apartment where she found her mother, sister, nephew and her sister's mother-in-law near death from carbon monoxide poisoning from a defective gas heater.

"When I talked with them on the telephone Saturday they sounded like dope addicts and I couldn't get them to tell what was the matter," Miss Martin said.

Charles Bill Jr., an airman second class, and his wife, Fay, had been complaining of dizzy spells for several weeks. The couple called their mothers in to care for them while they were ill.

The Mothers, Mrs. Charles Bill Sr., of Connelville, Pa., and Mrs. Emma Hegner of Cleveland were victims of the gas, as were the younger Mrs. Bill and her son, Charles, 1½.

Bill had been taken to the hospital earlier in the day to be treated for his "dizzy spells." Firemen used oxygen to revive the four before taking them to the hospital.

WORLDS, 14 min., Color — In this dramatic film of Iran today, the remnants of the mighty Persian Empire are contrasted with the growing influence of Western thought and technical development. Iran's major cities, arts, and industries are picture vividly against a backdrop of village life unchanged in twenty-five centuries.

LIFE OF CHRIST IN ART, 20 min., Color—Through paintings drawn from seven centuries of religious art and through visual imagery, this film recounts the life events in the life of Christ. The accompanying narrative is composed largely of passages from the Revised New Testament.

LITTLEST ANGEL, 13½ min., Color—Based on the book of the same title by Charles Tazewell. A Christmas fantasy telling of a lonely little angel and his humble gift to the Christ Child.

MEDIEVAL KNIGHTS, 22 min., B&W—Describes the development of the social class of knights in the 12th and 13th Centuries and then follows one knight through his apprenticeship in arms, first as a page, then as a squire. The story ends with a detailed illustration of the knighting ceremony. The film was photographed in several medieval castles in France.

MEXICAN FISHING VILLAGE, —8 min., Color—Tells the story of the people who live on the Island of Janitzio, in the middle of Lake

Patzcuaro, halfway between Guadalajara and Mexico City.

MONKEY WHO WOULD BE KING, 10 min., Color—A fable of a monkey who accepts the crown of the animal kingdom and then has to suffer the consequences. Many animals are candidates for the retiring lion's crown. The monkey wins, but the fox resents it and plots vengeance. The monkey learns that the responsibility of the crown is heavy.

PRESIDENT'S CABINET, 10 min., B&W — The relationship of the President's cabinet to everyday life situations and to other functions of our government is shown. The duties of the cabinet and the executive departments are outlined and a review of the general development of the cabinet is presented.

THE SUEZ, 13½ min., B&W — On man's vision has today become the vital concern of the whole world, the reason for which is shown in this film, Suez. It tells not only of the matter of keeping open the waterway, but also how the lives of 5,000 people to whom the canal symbolizes home are affected by the dispute.

TOBACCO AND THE HUMAN BODY, 15 min., B&W—An authentic report on the scientific results of modern research, evaluating the effects of the use of tobacco. Analyzes the contents of tobacco smoke, demonstrates some of the physiological effects of smoking, and sums up the factors to be considered in deciding whether or not to smoke.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain, Stops Itching as it Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.® At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Library Adds 49 Books in December

Forty-nine new volumes were added to the Pickaway County District Library during December.

Among the new books at the library are 16 fiction pieces and 33 non-fiction volumes. The fiction library received books by such authors as Bemelmans, Bentley, Costain, Gallico and Sagan.

The non-fiction works range from Gavan's "Our Changing Social Order" to "How to Build Hot Rods" and the Esquire Cartoon Book.

The new books are:

FICTION

Bemelmans — "The Woman of My Life," Bentley — "The Faster They Go," Bentley — "Love and Money," Bradbury — "Dandelion Wine," Colver — "The Parson," Costain — "Below the Salt," Fenton — "The Best Short Stories of World War II," Gallico — "Thomasina," Gebler — "A Week in the Country," Mannin — "Pity the Innocent," Rand — "Atlas Shrugged," Ross — "A Land to Tame," Sagan — "A Certain Smile," Tolbert — "Bigamy Jones," Wyckoff — "The Braintree Mission," Yoseloff — "Lily and the Sergeant."

NON-FICTION

Kepler — "The Book of Revelation," Merton — "Bread in the Wilderness," Gavan — "Our Changing Social Order," Warren — "Studying Your Community," Loeb — "The Battle for Investment Survival," MacGregor — "The Tichborne Imposter," Bruntz — "Understanding Our Government," Edmonston — "Civics in American Life," Bush — "Modern Arms and Free Men," Morenus — "Dew Line," Stone — "Children and Their Teachers," Smith — "Our First Book," Welch — "Take Off," Zim — "Rocks and Minerals," Scheele — "Prehistoric Man and the Primates," Durrell — "My Family Other Animals," Koller — "Hand Guns," Exner — "The American Fluoridation Experiment," Jaderquist — "How To Build Hot Rods," Wheelwright — "All Is Not Butter," Whitcomb — "Strictly for Secretaries," Levine — "Typing Made Simple," Lapp — "Successful Selling Strategies," Yerlow — "Fundamentals of Soft Soldering," Huxley — "Exotic Plants of the World," Kingham — "Rendering Techniques," Esquire — "Esquire Cartoon Album," Shorey — "Furnishing in Style," Jordan — "Hammond's Sports Atlas of America," Reinfield — "How to Get More Out of Chess," Goren — "Goren's New Contract Bridge Complete," O'Neill — "Long Journey into Night," Toor — "New Guide to Mexico."

The position of individual stores depends both on how well they sold their goods before Christmas and on how they ordered last fall. But, in general, retail inventories seem to be fairly well in line.

Although final figures aren't in, belated Christmas shopping appears to have brought total retail volume for the year to the 200 billion dollar mark for the first time. Higher prices this year make any gain in unit volume look doubtful.

The merchant who ordered cautiously last fall and sold in good volume just before Christmas doesn't seem to be hurting. But his problem now seems to be one of luring the consumer out of the careful penny mood into which he is falling.

Personal income may be still near the peak. But, pinched by the high cost of living and aware of idle production capacity, consumers are proving harder to pry loose from their money. And they are fast on their feet today in comparing prices at different stores and in haggling for a bargain.

The silver lining to this for business is the opportunity offered to the smart merchandiser and to the advertising man with savvy. But it doesn't keep the merchant from being in another bind, this time between the shopper wary of price boosts and the steady rise in his own costs.

To squeeze out, he'll have to learn how to get more sales per employee and more display and sales volume per square foot of costly store space.

Cincy BUC Opens In New Offices

CINCINNATI — The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation opened its new but makeshift office here today after a disastrous fire that burned out the old Cincinnati headquarters.

Workers toiled over the weekend to set up new offices at the onetime Alms and Doepeke store a few blocks from the old site.

The fire that started last Thursday noon destroyed the old office and its records. Duplicate records were dispatched from Columbus BUC headquarters, but about 3,000 recent jobless, for whom there were no records, must now reapply.

"It's more fun—a lot easier—than lecturing!"

Hillary's Dream—Unclimbable Peaks

By HOYT McAFEE
Central Press Association
Correspondent

PASADENA, Calif. — "First, I'll try to reach the South Pole and take a look around down there. No explorer has been there, you know, since 1911.

"I expect it to be a real work-out, a tough chore, yes. But I don't think it will be as rough as Tensing Norkay and I had it when we climbed Mt. Everest (world's highest mountain peak) on May 29, 1953."

In those foregoing words Sir Edmund Hillary revealed his South Pole trip to this writer several months ago.

The famed adventurer reached the Pole January 3, winning a race against a British expedition led by Dr. Vivian Fuchs.

During his lecture tour in the United States, I spent several hours with him after his Pasadena talk. He mentioned, by way of an aside, his interest in what he termed "a side diversion." He clarified that thusly:

"I SURELY won't tackle the North Pole. But, the South Pole is something else. That has been a secret goal of mine since I was a young chap in New Zealand.

"Mt. Everest was my number one dream, as you Americans would say it. Now that has been fulfilled, and the South Pole has bounced back from my boyhood dreams to haunt me."

As our conversation touched and dwelt on many phases of exploring and mountain climbing, Sir Edmund was in his happiest element. He remarked at one point, "If I do head for the South Pole, that will be only a warm-up for a project even more important to me.

"I'd like to explore the South Pole area; then get ready for the two toughest mountain peaks in the world. I won't be satisfied 'til I've seen what they look like—from the top."

He identified the two unconquered toughies as Baruntse and Chamlung, part of the Himalayan chain, slightly over 24,000 feet high; and they represent the number one challenge in mountain climbing today. That is, in the eyes of Sir Edmund.

And he enlightened me further. "When I take on the Baruntse and Chamlung projects, I certainly hope to have my best friend, Tensing Norkay, at my side. I also regard him as the ablest mountain climber in the world."

At another point I asked him how he'd prepare himself for the South Pole venture. "Oh, I'll go out and whip around some frozen-over lakes and ponds on weekends," he replied, in all seriousness.

"How will you go about toughening yourself up for the Baruntse and Chamlung expeditions?" I wanted to know. His response: "I'll fall back on my usual method: go out, find some high, rocky hills, and hike up and down them.

"THAT'S HOW I keep in trim." And with a sly grin he reminded me, "It's a lot more fun—and a lot easier—than lecturing!"

Postscript: Sir Edmund Hillary strikes you, outwardly, as being the most relaxed and casual guy in the world. Beneath his unruffled exterior, however, lies his fervent dedication to his foremost loves — exploring and mountain climbing.

Library Has 14 New Films for January

Fourteen new films are on hand for patrons of the Pickaway County District Library during January it was announced today.

The films, all 16 mm. sound, are available at the library for all interested parties. They range from a 10-minute fable "Monkey Who Would Be King" to a 22-minute production on the Constitution of the United States.

The new films are:

ANIMAL HOME, 11 min., B&W — Shows where animals live—in trees, in the ground, and in the water. Not only are settings and exterior scenes of different homes shown, but views are provided inside such homes as those of the trap-door spider, raccoon, skunk, and wood mouse.

BIRDS OF OUR STORYBOOKS, 10 min., Color—The robin, cardinal, crow, owl, blue jay, sparrow, redheaded woodpecker, wren, and sea gull, birds which children encounter most frequently in their stories and texts, are shown both as they appear in book illustrations and as they are in their natural settings.

CHILDREN OF GERMANY: IN THE RHINELAND, 13 Min., B&W Four boys are shown on a day's excursion in the Rhineland. As they sail with the pilot of a barge from Kauo to St. Goar, navigation and the Rhine's industrial importance are explained. The boys climb the Spitzstein and see vineyards, potato patches, castles and historic villages of the Rhine Valley.

CHOTU AND HIS JUNGLE ELEPHANT, 11 Min., B&W—Story of the elephant and his role in rural Indian life, shows how he serves as a pet, a valued possession, and a loyal worker, points out his important physical characteristics, as well as his gentle and playful nature.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES, 22 Min., B&W — Relates the story of the making of the Constitution of the United States. Dramatizes the conditions which led to the demand for the creation of a stronger federal government, the events leading up to a convening of the Constitutional Convention, major developments in the work of the convention, the underlying principles of government embodied in the Constitution, and the struggle over ratification.

IRAN — BETWEEN TWO

Cleveland, arrived Sunday at her sister's apartment here she found her mother, sister, nephew and her sister's mother-in-law near death from carbon monoxide poisoning from a defective gas heater.

"When I talked with them on the telephone Saturday they sounded like dope addicts and I couldn't get them to tell what was the matter," Miss Martin said.

Charles Bill Jr., an airman second class, and his wife, Fay, had been complaining of dizzy spells for several weeks. The couple called their mothers in to care for them while they were ill.

The Mothers, Mrs. Charles Bill Sr., of Connelville, Pa., and Mrs. Emma Hegner of Cleveland were victims of the gas, as were the younger Mrs. Bill and her son, Charles, 14.

Bill had been taken to the hospital earlier in the day to be treated for his "dizzy spells."

Firemen used oxygen to revive the four before taking them to the hospital.

WORLDS, 14 Min., Color — In this dramatic film of Iran today, the remnants of the mighty Persian Empire are contrasted with the growing influence of Western thought and technical development. Iran's major cities, arts, and industries are picture vividly against a backdrop of village life unchanged in twenty-five centuries.

LIFE OF CHRIST IN ART, 20 Min., Color— Through paintings drawn from seven centuries of religious art and through visual imagery, this film recounts the major events in the life of Christ. The accompanying narrative is composed largely of passages from the Revised New Testament.

LITTELST ANGEL, 13½ Min., Color— Based on the book of the same title by Charles Tazewell. A Christmas fantasy telling of a lonely little angel and his humble gift to the Christ Child.

MEDIEVAL KNIGHTS, 22 Min., B&W— Describes the development of the social class of knights in the 12th and 13th Centuries and then follows one knight through his apprenticeship in arms, first as a page, then as a squire. The story ends with a detailed illustration of the knightly ceremony. The film was photographed in several medieval castles in France.

MEXICAN FISHING VILLAGE, 8 Min., Color— Tells the story of the people who live on the Island of Janitzio, in the middle of Lake

Patzcuaro, halfway between Guadalajara and Mexico City.

MONKEY WHO WOULD BE KING, 10 Min., Color— A fable of a monkey who accepts the crown of the animal kingdom and then has to suffer the consequences. Many animals are candidates for the retiring lion's crown. The monkey wins, but the fox resents it and plots vengeance. The monkey learns that the responsibility of the crown is heavy.

PRESIDENT'S CABINET, 10 Min., B&W — The relationship of the President's cabinet to everyday life situations and to other functions of our government is shown. The duties of the cabinet and the executive departments are outlined and a review of the general development of the cabinet is presented.

THE SUEZ, 13½ Min., B&W — On man's vision has today be-

COLUMBUS — Solemn requiem high mass will be sung here Thursday for the Rev. Joseph B. Sheehan, a Columbus Aquinas High School teacher for 16 years, who died Friday in Jersey City.

come the vital concern of the whole world, the reason for which is shown in this film, Suez. It tells not only of the matter of keeping open the waterway, but also how the lives of 5,000 people to whom the canal symbolizes home are affected by the dispute.

TOBACCO AND THE HUMAN BODY, 15 Min., B&W— An authentic report on the scientific results of modern research, evaluating the effects of the use of tobacco. Analyzes the contents of tobacco smoke, demonstrates some of the physiological effects of smoking, and sums up the factors to be considered in deciding whether or not to smoke.
